SEVERAL HUNDRED PASSENGERS were shaken up but none was reported injured when seven cars of a New York-Washington train were derailed near Edgewood, Md. Train crewmen are shown looking at some of the cars which left the track. Officials said the derailment was believed caused by a damaged track.

Senator Sure U.S. To Veto Red China Bid For U. N. Seat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said today that "as things stand now, I am sure we would use the veto" to block the entrance of Communist China into the United Nations.

Smith said he was greatly pleased at assurances given the Foreign Relations Committee by a former member, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., that this country can and should use its veto to keep Communist China out of the U. N.

Lodge, former Massachusetts senator and now chief U. S. representative to the U. N., testified before the committee yesterday in lively support of the world organization. It was his first report to Congress on his stewardship as U. N. ambassador.

Smith, who heads the Far East subcommittee of the foreign relations group, said he expected "a lot of heat" from America's friends and enemies to get Red China into the U. N. after a truce in Korea.

"THAT'S WHEN we're going to have to have a stiff backbone," he said.

Both branches of Congress are on record against admitting the Chinese Communists to the U. N. President Eisenhower has said he is against it under present world conditions. The United States has never recognized the Communist government in Peking, China's U. N. seat is occupied by the Chinese Nationalists.

But the New Jersey senator said he expects the Communists to put on an adroit campaign to get Red China into the U. N.

"I would not be at all surprised," he said, "if they offered to

Stevenson Fan New Dem Boss In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The political futures of Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) may have been greatly affected this week by a quiet change of Democratic party bosses in Chicago.

The election of a "youngster," 51-year-old Richard J. Daley, as chairman of the party's Cook County Central Committee, puts a close friend and protégé of former Gov. Stevenson at the helm.

Daley's only opposition in Tuesday's election was from a faction closely associated with the "old" Cook County organization, once known as the Kelly-Nash machine.

Withdrawing from the contest for party leadership at the 11th hour was James J. (Big Jim) McDermott, a one-time member of the Kelly-Nash high council.

"I hope sincerely that Adlai Stevenson will stay in public life and permit his name to be used in the 1956 national convention," Dale declared today.

He also said he will give his full support as chairman of the county committee to Sen. Douglas whom he expects to be a candidate for reelection next year.

Leadership of the Cook County organization might have gone to a faction which has never been thoroughly sold on either Stevenson or Douglas.

During the days before the leadership change, several committee men let it be known they favored a return to dyed-in-the-wool organization men for candidates.

Employment Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department reported today industry employed almost five million more workers in June this year than three years ago when the Korean War began in June 1950.

Truce May Be Signed Sunday

Reliable Source In Seoul Says

Teenagers Calmly Awaiting Fate After Brutal Murder

LOGAN (AP)—Two teenagers held in the brutal robbery-slaying of an oil worker today calmly awaited the official decision that might mean the difference between death in the electric chair or a few years in a boys' reformatory.

Juvenile Judge Rea Bangert of Hocking County said Joseph Giffin, 15, and his brother, George, 13, probably would be tried for the death of Ivor Dawley of New Straitsville in juvenile court.

Assistant Prosecutor Philip Henderson said conviction would mean commitment to boys' industrial school or a similar reformatory until they reached the age of 21.

But, if officials decide to try the boys in common pleas court, the charge, Henderson said, would be first-degree murder. Conviction then could mean life in prison or death in the electric chair.

Judge Bangert also said she was considering sending the two boys to the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus, a state institution where juveniles are studied. The stay there would be temporary, pending their trial.

Henderson said neither boy showed any remorse over the fatal shooting of Dawley, 60, an oil pumper who worked on pumps adjoining their farm home.

He said statements the boys signed showed they planned to kill and rob Dawley for two days prior to the shooting.

The motive, Henderson said, was robbery, apparently because the two boys were angry with their stepfather, George Sanders, and their mother, Rebecca Saunders.

The boys are accused of taking turns shooting into Dawley's body. The Giffin boys stole $20 and Dawley's car after the shooting, Henderson said. They later wrecked the car, and while police were holding them, their mother telephoned to report the shooting.

Henderson said the last of four .22 caliber rifle bullets that struck Dawley was fired into the man's brain from six feet away as he sprawled on the ground.

The Sanders farm is in a sparsely populated area known as Sands Run Junction, 15 miles east of here. The slaying occurred several hundred yards from the house.

Rhee Is Seen Only Possible Hitch In Plan

ROK Chieftain Claims Allies Tell Him One Thing, Reds Another

SEOUL (Saturday)—A usually reliable source said last night the Korean armistice probably will be signed Sunday.

The informant, who is close to the truce talks but cannot otherwise be identified, said only a last-minute hitch stemming from President Syngman Rhee's opposition could block the signing.

The informant said announcement of the signing date could be expected today. He said he did not know the "contemplated hour of the ceremony which would formalize a cease-fire in the war, now more than three years old."

The signing date probably was set, tentatively at least, by senior liaison officers at a meeting in Panmunjom yesterday (Friday).

A full-dress session of the main delegation might be held today to approve the date.

This announcement came as Rhee angrily denounced an armistice and declared that the Allies had promised him one thing and the Communists another.

The stubborn old South Korean President acknowledged that a truce was imminent and said he is anxious "not to follow a unilateral policy, if it can be avoided."

Rhee has threatened several times in the past to pull out of the U. N. and fight on alone.

In a strongly worded statement, Rhee accused the Allies of giving the Communists pledges which "render impossible a fulfillment" of some of South Korea's basic understandings with the United States.

HE SAID HIS agreement with Assistant U. S. Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's truce envoy, provided:

1. "That no troops from India or any other foreign nation will be landed in South Korea to guard prisoners of war."

Yet, said Rhee, "The Communists claim Gen. William K. Harrison has agreed that such troops will land in South Korea and that they will be granted police protection by the U. N. forces. I can only say that the Korean people will not permit this to happen."

2. "That the United States will join with the Republic of Korea in setting a time limit to the political conference."

Yet, Rhee added, "It has been announced there is agreement that there will be no time limit on the armistice."

3. "That Korean prisoners who refuse repatriation shall be set free in South Korea and that the Chinese prisoners who refuse to return to communism shall be sent (Continued on Page Two)

Senate Backs Ike In Air Fund Slash

200 New Jet Bombers Refused As Republican Party Line Holds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson have won their long battle to cut funds and target goals of the Air Force.

Without a record vote, the Senate late yesterday shouted approval of a bill carrying $34,434,140,500 to operate the defense establishment for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The real tests had come earlier after lengthy, angry debate.

First, by a 55-38, rollcall, the Senate rejected an effort by Sen. Maybank (D-SC) to give the Air Force an additional $400 million to order 200 B47 jet bombers, capable of delivering atomic bombs.

This was the big test, since it was the first to come to a vote. Republican lines held firm against the increase and they picked up 9 valuable Democratic votes to add to the 46 GOP ones. Voting for Maybank's amendment were 37 Democrats and 1 Independent.

IF MAYBANK'S move had succeeded, other Democrats planned amendments to restore more of the $5 billion cut from former President Truman's Air Force budget by the GOP.

Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz.) lost 48-41 in an effort to add about $50 million to step up pilot training. He recalled that many World War II pilots had been called back into service in Korea and said Congress should train enough pilots to avoid this in the future.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), floor manager for the bill, said the Air Force should be able to turn out 8,300 new pilots this year in addition to some 47,000 now trained.

Not a change was made in the bill as it had been reported by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A conference committee will be named to adjust Senate-House differences.

One Senate provision may cause trouble there. It would end the recent policy of giving areas of high employment preference in the award of defense contracts. The Senate upped the House totals for the Air Force by about $200 million, for the Navy by $96 million and for the Army by $31 million. It offset this in part by chopping out $250 million the House voted for a machine tools pool asked by Secretary Wilson.

AS THE BILL cleared the Senate it contained about $77 million more than the House voted.

The Senate bill still was more than $1 billion below Eisenhower's budget, more than $6 billion under the Truman requests and more than $12½ billion less than Congress voted last year.

The funds are expected to result in a total military force of 3,356,000 by the end of next June, which will be cut to 3,300,000 if a truce is reached in Korea. That compares with a recent 3½ million.

State Session Ignores Move On Youth Study

No Reason Given For Failure To OK Resolution

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, Friday announced the 100th General Assembly has ignored a request for a special study of the state's juvenile delinquency problem.

The request in large part originated in Circleville and Wallace said he had been given assurance the necessary resolution would be adopted. The resolution would have authorized the study by a legislative commission.

Wallace, a co-sponsor of the legislation, said he knew of no good reason why the matter was tossed aside in the closing days of the session. It was the first official announcement here that the resolution faced anything but a clear track ahead.

Wallace said he was told adoption of the resolution was certain.

"I DON'T KNOW why they turned it down," he said. "After all, the legislature didn't clean up its work—it just quit. We were in session 100 days, and since it was the 100th General Assembly they decided it should end on the 100th day."

"All I know is that the resolution (Continued on Page Two)

'Mother' Lays Claim To Big Kelly Estate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Mrs. Rose Sigler McGhiey, 45, of Springfield, Ill., asserting she is the mother of an illegitimate son and legitimate heiress to his $1 million estate, resumes testimony in probate court here today.

Mrs. McGhiey, mother of four other children, claimed yesterday that Dennis R. Kelly was her son. Kelly was the adopted child of the late Edmund P. and Bess M. Kelly, wealthy Columbus residents.

Young Kelly inherited his wealth from his adopted parents but died at the age of 20 last Feb. 12 of pneumonia in an Army camp. He left no will. Relatives of the elder Kellys laid claim to his estate.

Mrs. McGhiey claims the estate should go to her as Kelly's natural mother. She asked the court to declare her Kelly's heir.

She told the court she thought her son, Richard Allen Sigler, died in an Evanston, Ill., adoption home shortly after his birth, July 26, 1932.

But a Chicago genealogist, John Love, told her last April that Richard did not die but was adopted by the Kellys.

"I had to tell my present husband—win, lose or draw," she said. "I said, 'Well, here goes my happy home.' He knows about it now."

City Population Expands 9.3 Percent; County 5.2

Pickaway County's 6,785 families were supported on an average income of $2,540 per family in 1950, with 36.7 percent of the families receiving less than $2,000 and only 13.3 percent earning more than $5,000.

According to the U. S. Census Bureau's county and city data book, the 6,785 families represented a total population for the county of 29,352, ranking the county 970th in the United States and representing an average of 4.3 persons per family.

The county's 1950 census figures showed a 5.2 per cent increase in population over the 1940 census. Circleville, on the other hand, showed a total population of 8,723 persons in 1950, an increase of 9.3 per cent over the 1940 tabulations.

SINCE THE 1950 census was tabulated, it has been estimated the bright horizon of industrial possibilities here has caused the population to be increased by more than another 1,000 persons.

Chief attraction for the new residents of the city have been the new General Electric plant here and beginning of construction work on the new $10 million DuPont plant south of town.

In all, the Census Bureau lists Pickaway County with 507 square miles of land and 58 persons per square mile.

Of the total population in the county, 8,723 live in Circleville, 12,298 persons are non-farm rural residents and 8,331 persons make up the rural farm population.

As of 1950, there were 2,810 youngsters under five years old in the county and 2,983 who were 65 and over. The median age of the county's residents was a young 29.1 years.

For the year of 1950, there were 568 live births in the county, only 289 deaths and 25 infant deaths. There were 129 couples who married during the year.

THERE WERE 4,685 children in Circleville and Pickaway County schools. Of the total population over 25 years old, the average person had completed 8.8 years of schooling; 14.5 per cent had completed less than five grades; 30 per cent had completed high school.

During 1950, 8,774 countians were gainfully employed; 2,677 in agriculture; 19 in mining; 586 in construction; 1,296 in manufacturing; 592 in public utilities; 1,535 in wholesale and retail trade; 177 in finance, real estate and insurance; 347 in business and personal services; and 823 in professional and related services.

Agriculture listed 30.5 per cent of the total working force in the county, with only 14.8 per cent of the population employed in manufacturing.

Housing was acute in 1950 and continues acute now. The data shows there were 7,177 dwelling units in Pickaway County during 1940 and only 7,786 in 1950, an increase of 609 structures. Since 1950, the housing program has been increasing here, but it still is inadequate.

At the time of the census, dwelling units averaged 5.5 rooms. In all, 87 per cent of the homes were separate, detached units; 8.1 per cent of the units were built after 1940; and only eight-tenths of one per cent of the units were vacant and available for tenants in 1950. Three years later, the condition remains almost unchanged because of more population.

In 1950, only 39.4 per cent of the homes had hot running water, toilet and bath and were not dilapidated. An average of three tenants occupied each dwelling, with 54.6 per cent of the housing units occupied by their owners.

Of the total housing units, 30 per cent had central heating units; 76.4 per cent had refrigerators; and 95.6 per cent had radios. In the non-farm dwelling units, average monthly rent was set at $33.61.

Special Council Meeting Set To Speed Watt Sewer Work

Notices for a special meeting of City Council were being prepared for distribution Friday.

Signed by the Mayor and served by the city police department, the notices will make it definite that Council will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday for special deliberations. Plans for the extra huddle were pinned down at the last regular meeting of the lawmakers.

Notices prepared by City Solicitor George Gerhardt stipulated the meeting will be held to discuss details of the Watt S. sewer project. Council feels the project finally has a clear track ahead and wants to hurry the work for completion this year.

Gerhardt explained the special meeting, technically, can only consider matters relating to the sewer job. It seems almost certain, however, that Council also will discuss details of Circleville's municipal court after the formal business is ended.

CIRCLEVILLE'S municipal court begins Jan. 1, and Council has the responsibility of setting the judge's salary. Some of the other details in the court operations will also require decisions by the lawmakers.

Candidates for judge of the city court must file by Aug. 6. With views already varied on several phases of the court's operations, it was learned Friday some of the lawmakers hope to have the court set up without a police prosecutor. In many communities where city court systems are established, such work is handled by one man in addition to the city solicitor's duties.

Under the plan being studied here, however, no police prosecutor would be needed at the court hearings. "In a way," one official explained, "it would be just the same as though the Mayor were hearing the case."

Pee-Yew!! Boys Get Wrong Skunk

JAMBOREE CITY, Calif. (AP)—Two Ohio boys spent last night scrubbing themselves in the shower.

Dale Ottny and Phil Matha of Gibsonburg, went out hunting yesterday for a fellow scout's lost housebroken skunk. They found a skunk but learned to their dismay it was not deodorized.

The men, all from Hollidaysburg, Pa., went into the remote area, 65 miles from here, without local guides on June 12 to shoot bears. They were Eugene H. Lindsey, 45, whose skeletal, skull-less remains were found last week; his son Richard, 17, and Fred Claar, 20.

The youths' bones were discovered yesterday at an abandoned logging camp four miles from another camp which had yielded the remains of the elder Lindsey. Both sites were criss-crossed by bear tracks. The bush country lies along an upper branch of the St. Jean River, far from the picturesque coastal road familiar to many American tourists.

Only one skull was found. A medical expert said bears could have eaten the two missing heads.

Police said a set of upper teeth were found and were believed to have been Claar's. Nearby was a white sweatshirt with the words "Hollidaysburg Tigers." A white sweater was found stained with blood and with a small, circular hole, as if made by a bullet.

Widely scattered about were rib bones, parts of spinal columns, leg and arm bones. Two hip bones were found on the far side of the stream. Strewn about were bits of chewed clothing, a watch believed to have been young Lindsey's and other small possessions.

Searchers said none of the bones appeared to have been broken by human violence but all had been

Human Killer Of 3 Hunters Sought After Bear-Gnawed Bones Recovered

GASPE, Que. (AP)—Quebec police today sought the human killer of three Pennsylvania hunters whose fleshless, bear-gnawed bones have been found deep in the rugged, mountainous Gaspé Peninsula after a three-week search.

"Murder, cold-blooded and planned" was the report last night of the Quebec Attorney-General's Department after discovery of the last two bodies.

Robbery was believed the motive, since no trace was found of $700 in cash, two expensive rifles, binoculars and most of the equipment they were carrying.

Police hinted an arrest was imminent but were mum on suspects. Woodsman went back into the bush today seeking more clues.

gnawed and dragged about, apparently by bears which followed up the murderer.

Relatives and friends of the hunters in Hollidaysburg and nearby Altoona, Pa., pressed for a complete investigation of the killings. A group of Altoona sportsmen last night urged that the famed Royal Canadian Mounted Police be assigned to the probe. The group said it would wire Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.), urging him to ask the State Department and the FBI to enlist the Mounties' aid.

The hunters left their Pennsylvania home June 5, to be gone two weeks. Their relatives set up the alarm when no word was heard from them three weeks later. Police began a wide search.

Columbus Strike May Be Near End

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus went into the ninth day of a transit strike today with strong indications it would end soon.

A meeting between the striking CIO Transport Workers Union and the Columbus Transit Co. was scheduled today. The company indicated last night it was ready to resume negotiations with the union on its demands for a 23½ cent an hour wage increase and a reduction of the present 48-hour work week to 40 hours.

Brooklyn Beer In Milwaukee Brings Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional argument over the National Baseball League pennant race has produced a hint that Brooklyn beer may be responsible for the slump of the Milwaukee Braves.

In fact, claims Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis.), an ardent Braves rooster, "there is grave suspicion" that a strike in Milwaukee breweries "might have been instigated" by other National League cities, particularly Brooklyn.

Brooklyn has held the league lead since June 28 when Milwaukee dropped to second after the two clubs saw-sawed in the top spot.

So long as Milwaukee's famous beer was available to "put new life into the Milwaukee Braves," O'Konski said in a statement in the Congressional Record, the Braves were doing fine and "had the borough of Brooklyn in jitters."

But along came a strike that has closed all Milwaukee breweries for the last six weeks, O'Konski said, and "there has been a very serious drought" in Milwaukee.

He said the Braves had "to use these cheap imitations" imported from other National League cities, and "they went into a slight slump which accounts for the Brooklyn Dodgers leading in the race at this moment."

didn't go through. I agree it's something that nobody in his right mind would oppose."

The resolution called for a state-wide survey of the problems in Ohio behind the juvenile delinquency picture. Had it been adopted, steps were ready to urge that the Circleville area be covered by any studies made.

Circleville's Police Chief Elmer Merriman has mentioned several times that the dangers placed before local youth are far greater than the public here realizes. He emphasized that much of the picture is hidden from the public by the fact that law violations are not established.

In connection with the legislature's failure to adopt the resolution, Wallace said he favors holding a legislative session each year instead of every other year.

"Things are moving too fast and piling up too high," he said. "We should go back into session each January to get the business cleared up."

WALLACE SAID he had no late information on progress of the Route 23 bypass controversy. The dispute over the state's plan to loop the highway around the west side of Circleville has been in a long stall.

Rulings are awaited on key questions from the state attorney general's office.

Calling attention to the roar and clatter of traffic passing on Court St. at the time, Wallace commented:

"But you know the bypass is going through, because the people just aren't going to stand for this."

Hoover, Farley Named By Ike To New Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today appointed former President Herbert Hoover and James A. Farley, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, public representatives on a new commission on government reorganization.

Eisenhower named Atty. Gen. Brownell and Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, representatives of the government's executive branch.

Under the law creating the commission, eight additional members will be designated by Congress. Vice President Nixon and House Speaker Martin each will designate 4 members—2 from the Senate, 2 from the House and 4 from private life.

Congress members said earlier this week they looked for Hoover to serve as chairman.

The new commission will have considerably broader authority than the old Hoover commission on government reorganization had. The former President headed that unit from the time it was set up in 1947 until it completed its work in 1949.

Hoover said the new assignment would be difficult because "there are a lot of sore toes on Capitol Hill that don't like to be stepped on."

Six Seamen Missing As Ship Explodes

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A sea-going tanker exploded and burned alongside a dock last night and checkpoints today showed seven men missing, six of them crewmen from tugboats that were caught by the blast.

The 9,179-ton tanker Pan-Georgia was completing discharge of its 110,000 barrel cargo of fuel oil and high octane gasoline when flames spouted from one of the holds.

A check of the Pan Georgia's crew list showed all but one man, Ray Ott, of Galveston, Tex., the second assistant engineer, had been accounted for. Ship officers said he apparently drowned after leaping overboard.

In Philadelphia, the Curtis Bay Towing Co. reported it had been unable to account for six crewmen aboard its tugs, the J. H. Deinein and the Otoco. Both tugs were standing by the Pan Georgia at the time the fire started.

Of the other crew members, 24 were rescued by Coast Guard and Army engineer rescue boats and brought to Red Cross headquarters in Wilmington. Another eight were admitted to Delaware Hospital where two are in critical condition from burns.

It was the second tragedy in little more than a month involving bulk carriers vessels. On June 6, the Pan Massachusetts and the Phoenix collided at Port Penn, 15 miles south of here, causing a spectacular fire and taking three lives.

to a destination of their own choice."

Yet, Rhee said, "The so far uncontradicted report from Panmunjom directly states that this will not be done. This cannot be allowed to happen."

RHEE SAID that during his conferences with Robertson "I asked him, as a major basis for my reluctant agreement to postpone our plans for dealing with the enemy aggressors, to give me assurances that the United States would either jointly resume the fighting with us (if the political conference failed) or if this cannot be done, that it would back our efforts with moral and material support in addition to the proposed economic aid."

"I am sure he is doing all he can," Rhee said, "but while a truce seems imminent, I have had no word on this crucial matter."

Rhee flew to U. S. 1st Corps headquarters later in the day to present the corps with the ROK presidential unit citation.

Last month Rhee nearly wrecked an armistice when he ordered the release of about 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners. And earlier this week he warned that South Korea will follow its own course of action unless the Chinese Reds agree within six months after an armistice is signed to evacuate North Korea.

Friday Rhee said he is "still waiting hopefully for word" from Washington that the agreement he reached with Robertson in Seoul last month has "not been sacrificed to the demands of the Communist enemy."

Motorist Is Caught After Long Chase

A young motorist chased into Pickaway County from Franklin County was fined $25 and costs Thursday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

The driver, Tommy Whittman, 19, of Lucasville Route 3, was arrested for reckless operation of a motor vehicle by two deputy sheriffs who chased him in a Franklin County cruiser. The deputies made the arrest after the chase on Route 23 led into Harrison Township.

Whittman, accompanied by three other youths at the time, said he was unable to pay the fine immediately and was placed in Pickaway County jail. Affidavit was signed by Franklin County Deputy Robert Slade.

Mother Aids Cops In Hunt For Her Son

CLEVELAND (AP) — The gray-haired, blind woman raised her head as detectives entered her living room in search of her son.

"Cold is here now," she said. A few minutes later, the son, Coid Mescudi, 30, lay dead with two police bullets in his body.

Before the detectives caught up with him yesterday, Mescudi, had wounded two relatives and caused his estranged wife to leap off a second-story porch at another house. Police said he went berserk after his wife rebuffed his reconciliation attempt.

When Detectives Harold Boyett and James Brewer walked into the home of Mescudi's 52-year-old mother, Mrs. Ethel Mescudi, the fugitive was sitting with her in the living room.

They said Mescudi leaped to his feet, cursed his mother and yelled, "They won't take me alive!" He fled to the kitchen and started to jump out a window before the officers could grab him. He was shot in a struggle that followed.

A few hours earlier, Mescudi had gone to the home of his wife, Ethel, 30. Police said he became enraged, fired a rifle bullet through the shoulder of his brother-in-law, John Ferguson, 18; frightened his wife into leaping from the porch and slashed her mother, Mrs. Mattie Ferguson, 48, on an arm with a piece of glass.

Beria's German Buddy Purged

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Red Gestapo boss, Wilhelm Zaisser, has been fired as Minister of State Security, it was officially announced tonight.

Zaisser, notorious commander of international brigades in the Spanish Civil War as "General Gomez," was replaced by Ernest Wollweber, former head of state security for shipping. Zaisser used to boast he had a direct telephone line to Lavrenty P. Beria, the ousted Soviet secret police boss.

Showdown Looming On Ike's Demand For Postal Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders may try to force a showdown today or tomorrow on the Eisenhower administration's demand for higher postal rates.

Republican leader Halleck of Indiana said he hopes to get the controversial rate bill out of the Postoffice Committee in time for House consideration Monday.

He conceded he might be overly optimistic, but said he would insist on some committee action to find out where the administration stands in one of the hottest session-end battles on Capitol Hill.

The proposed rate boosting bill is the target of foes openly seeking to stall off action until Congress adjourns in a week or two.

Chairman Rees (R-Kan) stepped up committee activity by calling night sessions in an effort to finish hearing witnesses waiting to protest the effect of higher postage costs on their businesses.

THE BILL, on President Eisenhower's "must" list, would hike postal rates $240 million a year to ease a postoffice deficit running more than $500 million. The largest

3 New Teachers Are Hired In County Schools

Three new teachers have been employed in Pickaway County's school system, completing teaching staffs in two schools.

Washington Township board of education has employed Mrs. Doris Roe Briggs, now attending Ohio University, as first grade teacher. Mrs. Briggs replaces Mrs. Pearl Porter, who resigned to take a post in Circleville schools.

Monroe Township has employed Mrs. Sylvia Akers of Logan Route 2 to teach grades three and four. Mrs. Akers was trained in State Teachers College, Tenn., and has six years of experience in teaching.

County Superintendent George McDowell said the Washington and Monroe Township Schools have completed their 1953-54 staffs with the employment of Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Akers.

Darby Township has hired Mrs. Emerson Ward of Mt. Sterling to teach second grade. Mrs. Ward formerly taught in Ashville school, and succeeds Miss Mabel Stewart, who resigned to work in Ironton schools.

but were shoved down the slopes by counterattacking ROKs at dawn. The hill was quiet for a few hours, then was recaptured in a savage Red charge at noon which was protected by overcast skies that grounded Allied warplanes.

The U. S. 8th Army reported Allied artillery caught five Chinese companies of about 800 soldiers in the open in the Kumhwa-Kumsong Valley on the central front and killed or wounded 270 Reds.

American and South Korean troops overpowered the Reds in six of nine other savage battles across the war-torn peninsula.

The South Koreans caught the brunt of what could be some of the final fighting in the 3-year war. They counterattacked on four central front hills lost to the Reds this week, and recaptured one in a bloody fight with hand grenades and rifle butts.

WASHINGTON (P)—With a Korean truce apparently very close, what benefits did the United States get from three years of fighting?

At the moment these seem to be the positive benefits:

1. The Communists' first post-war aggression was stopped and the South Korean Republic was saved from them.
2. The United Nations, of which the United States is the main supporter, met its first big challenge: Could the members act together to stop aggression? They could and did.
3. The shock of the Korean invasion pushed the Western world into a big re-arming and closer alliance, thus making it a tougher target for bigger attack later, if the Communists planned one.
4. Small countries, seeing the U. N. rush to Korea's rescue, were heartened to withstand any future pressures and threats from the Communists.

Summed up, this was the net effect of the four benefits:

The United States, because of its re-arming, is in better shape to handle Russia, if it has to, than it was before Korea. Communist expansion, for those three years at least, was stopped cold.

Yet, these benefits which seem so obvious and real now, may in the end prove to have been illusory and temporary. The whole Korean War, because of future events, may turn out to have been wasted effort by the United States.

Why? Because Korea, through infiltration and subversion, may yet wind up in the Communist camp.

And China, with time to grow stronger economically and militarily after a truce, may be able to terrorize the rest of Asia into submission without the necessity of direct military attack.

The Western Allies, through fatigue, economic entanglements with the Communist bloc, or disagreements with the United States, may grow soft toward Moscow and move closer to it than before Korea.

A severe depression in Western Europe, for instance, would be a supreme test of each country's ability to resist Communist pressure, internally and externally.

The people of the United States, long tired of the Korean War, later on may be reluctant—to the point of being too late—to move against new Communist aggression elsewhere.

But guesses about the future are not the meat of action. The Eisenhower administration can not feed upon guesses in trying to reach decisions and peace in Asia.

It can only hope that what seem now like positive gains from the Korean War will prove, in the history books of the future, to have been true and lasting benefits.

To make them last the administration will have to work ceaselessly for the rest of its term, with its eyes wide open.

In the peace negotiations with the Chinese one wrong decision on the part of the United States could lead to such disaster for this country and such victory for communism that the whole Korean War would have been in vain.

Tot Rides Bumper Of Speeding Truck

LITTLETON, Colo. (P)—Red light flashing and siren screaming, State Patrolman Kenneth Thompson chased a pickup truck for two miles south of here last night. When he finally halted Mrs. Albert Lynes, the Lynes' 3-year-old daughter, Mary Margaret, climbed from the front bumper of the truck and greeted her parents.

Thomson said the tot evidently had ridden on the front of the truck for 10 miles at speeds between 45 and 50 m.p.h. The parents thought the girl was home in bed.

He Pledges Pint Blood Each Year

TULSA, Okla. (P)—The Tulsa County Red Cross blood center's champion donor is William I. Nichols, 50, whose goal is a pint for every year of his life.

He has given the center 21 pints after making 15 blood donor trips to hospitals before the center was established.

Nichols' complaint is 'they won't let him give blood after he's 60. "Shucks," he said, "a normal boy fighting his way through school would lose more blood than donors are permitted to give."

Poor Gamblers Had Tough Year

BOSTON (P)—Massachusetts bookies had a poor year, indeed, based on the taxes they paid the federal government.

Internal Revenue Director Thomas Scanlon said last night the 226 dutifully-registered Massachusetts bookies paid a total of but $36,879 in excise taxes in the fiscal year ended last June 30.

The excise tax is 10 per cent of the gross take. That would put average gross receipts at $1,630 per bookie, as the average tax paid was $163.

Gambling is illegal in Massachusetts, except for horse and dog track pari-mutuel betting.

SALISBURY STAKE

REPORTS PERSIST that Prime Minister Churchill will hang up his spats and bowler in the near future. Indomitable Win-bow, now on an enforced hiatus for his health, is said to be waiting for the chance to play one last big scene on the world stage before bowing out.

As co-stars he would like to have Eisenhower and whoever qualify at the time as chiefs of state of Russia and France. Subject: World peace.

In the recent conferences in Washington, the Big Three tentatively set the machinery in motion for the Churchill-conceived finale. The British representative, Acting Foreign Minister Lord Salisbury, brought the subject up on the prime minister's orders, but was quick to accede to modifications proposed by the U. S.

The meeting, if it is held—and there is doubt—will feature first only members of the supporting cast, the foreign ministers, and be confined to topics which the Russians have never shown much stomach for before. This includes German unity and the Austrian peace treaty.

A most significant consideration is the attitude of Lord Salisbury himself. This member of Britain's prominent Cecil family who would doubtless succeed to the foreign ministry were Eden to assume Churchill's mantle has a long record as an anti-appeaser. As Eden's assistant, he walked out with the latter in protest over Chamberlain's pre-World War II sop to Hitler.

More recently, Salisbury has denounced British recognition of the Chinese Reds. Salisbury, given a full voice in international affairs, could become an important spokesman for the free world's cause.

NEW INDIAN POLICY

NEWLY-NAMED INDIAN Commissioner Glenn Emmons, New Mexico banker, says he will propose rapid liquidation of government stewardship of the Indians. Emmons agrees with those who contend that a well-intentioned but confused paternalistic policy has kept the Indians as children in an adult's world. Emmons would accelerate the process by which they may become increasingly self-sufficient as a people and be turned loose into the main stream of American life.

The new commissioner proposed to reclaim unproductive reservation acreage to help farm-minded Indians to operate as individuals and would encourage tribal industries for those who prefer non-agrarian pursuits. Health and education policies would continue to be encouraged.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Governments, like individuals, seek legitimacy, if it is possible. Even governments which are the products of revolution desire a continuing relationship with the past, once the revolution and the attendant reign of terror are over.

Respectability requires not only a due regard for national traditions, but a nexus with the historic past of the nation.

It was this sense of relationships which so impressed Talleyrand and impelled Napoleon to cast aside his wife, Josephine, and to marry into the Hapsburgs, which thus made his progeny, if not himself, the legitimate ruler of France. He married into regal respectability. The same motive dominated the thinking of the Holly Alliance after the Conference of Vienna in 1815.

Even in China, where the people were accustomed to changes in dynasties, several of them of non-Chinese origin, legitimacy played so great a role that Sun Yat-sen changed the capital from Peking to Nanking because the North refused to acknowledge him. After his death, he was defied by public opinion.

Thereupon, Chiang Kai-shek established himself as Sun Yat-sen's heir and ruled the country with that sanction. Even Mao Tse-tung finds it advantageous to use Mme. Sun Yat-sen in his government because it gives his regime an aura of legitimacy.

The Russian Revolution started as a palace uprising with Prince Lvov in charge, supported by members of the Romanov family. When Kerensky took over, his was called the Provisional Government and an effort was made to find some continuing basis in traditional Russian life and government.

The Constituent Assembly was called for the purpose of giving Democratic authority to the change of regime. I was present at this meeting in 1917 when the Bolsheviks killed the Constituent Assembly. In terms of political organization, that was the effective climax of the Russian Revolution.

Lenin and Trotsky founded the Soviet State as a revolutionary act, based upon the will of a minority, accompanied by a devastating terror. Civil war and foreign intervention provided a justification for the terror, as they had for the French Revolutionists who eventually succumbed to Napoleon.

The Lenin regime was alien, based upon the concepts of a German philosopher, Karl Marx. However, as the years passed, the pull of tradition was so great that autocracy rather than dictatorship of the proletariat reasserted itself. Autocracy is an indigenous Russian concept of government. Ivan the Terrible is a Russian prototype of ruler and he became Stalin's hero.

Thus Stalin departed from the Marxist-Leninist ideas of government and restored the normal Russian method, autocracy. But Stalin needed legitimacy which Lenin never tried to establish. Stalin created a god—Lenin. Everything he did was in the name of Lenin.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
SEATED with Manning in the restaurant, Laura propped her elbows on the edge of the table and asked, "What about Gal?"
"I'd guess that he's ridden out with the rest of Slash's crew," he said. "But even if he hasn't, I can't go after him. Don't you see? I can't be a part-time lawman, letting one man go but chasing another. It's whole hog or none. That's why I wouldn't have shot Ruxton if he hadn't forced me."
"I see," she said. "You've decided not to arrest Gramp, so you can't in conscience arrest Gal, either."
"Closed case," he said.
"And where does that leave you, Cole?"
He shrugged. "Right back where I started." He felt humble now, looking at her; but there was one thing that remained unchanged for him.

"You see," he said, "you were right about my wanting to stand higher than Flint Manning. Once he'd failed, so that made a chance for me. Only he didn't really fail; I know that now. As it turned out, he proved himself bigger even than the badge he wore. There will be no topping him now, ever."

She said, "You had a big choice to make, too. Today."
"But it was a second choice," he said. "Flint had already made it. And he had less reason to let Doc Brownlee go free."
"Less reason, Cole?"
"Yes," he said. "There was no one like you mixed into it for him."

He stood up then and came around the table and bent over her. He cupped her face in his hands and bent and kissed her, not caring who looked on. "Goodbye, Laura," he said.
"Cole!" she cried. "Is it because you can't stay? Because the Bootjack would always remind you of failure?"

"Something like that," he said. "Then I'll come to the Marias!"
"You'd bring the Bootjack with you," he said and walked from the restaurant.

He was taking, he supposed, his last look at Manning; and as he passed the brick hospital, it seemed to him the biggest thing in the world. No, not quite. The biggest thing was that statue of Flint Manning anchoring the end of the street.

Seated with Senator Tom Flowers before a low burning open fire in the Senator's finely appointed library, Cole Manning related all that had happened down there on the Bootjack.

When, with a sense of frustration and defeat he had revealed the last amazing detail, he reached into his pocket and brought forth the shield-shaped emblem of law and order with which he had been entrusted. But as he made to thrust it into the Senator's hand, Tom Flowers said:

"Keep it, Manning. In my house that badge belongs to you."
Then walking to the marble-topped table, Flowers lifted Flint Manning's letter and, crumbling it tossed it into the fire. As they watched it wither to ash, Flowers said:

"The case is closed," and leading his visitor politely to the door he bade him a hearty good-night.

Walking briskly, Cole was nearly to the start of State street now, and the stars in the east were beginning to fade. He came abreast of a big red brick building and was reminded of Brownlee's charity hospital. He wondered then if all brick buildings would forever remind him of that hospital. He put his hand out to the building and felt its solidity.

Another block or so to the Bristol. This thinking, he was a tired man, and unwary, with no full consciousness of the man who stepped from the shadow of the brick building until he was face to face with the fellow. He knew that tall shape before he heard and recognized the voice of Gal.

Gal said, "I've been behind you all the way from the Bootjack. I was close of your heels tonight, but not close enough. I found your name on the Bristol register, and I've waited until the night for you to head back there. This is the end of it. Bring out your gun blazing this time. We'll finish here and now."

Manning saw Gal's gun clear leather and came up, and he sensed that his own draw was faster than Gal's. He felt his forty-five beat back against his palm, and the roar was great in his ears. But in the last instant before he pulled the trigger, he had time for remembering that Gal had balked at torturing Packrat Purdy; he had time for pity. And so he moved his gun barrel slightly to the left.

Gal seemed to shudder and turn half about, his face a white, stricken smear against the darkness. The gun slipped from his fingers and dropped with a clatter. Manning took long steps toward him. "I think you've broken my arm," Gal said.

"Let's have a look at it," Gal groaned and shrank against the building. "I want nothing from you."

Gal's face was a haggard mask in which those blue eyes blazed. "All those years in stony loneliness," he muttered. "They slowed me down. They slowed me down. Once I'd have been able to give anyone with your speed an edge and still split his heart before he could ear back the hammer. My speed is just one more thing a Manning took away from me."

Manning said, "I wish I could take away your hate." He came close to Gal and reached out and felt of his arm. "I don't think the bone is broken," Manning said. He whipped off his bandana and wadded it and handed it to Gal. "Here, hold this against the wound."

Feet pounded along the walk. Someone drawn by the shot, Manning thought. A blue-uniformed figure snapped up, a night-stick swinging. "What's going on here?" demanded a voice with a touch of brogue to it.

"Nothing to worry about, officer," Manning said. "You've got someone here who needs a doctor, though." He remembered the decision he'd made about Gal in Mannington and felt a last regret. "You'll find you've bagged a prize. This man is an escaped convict from Deer lodge. He's down on the books as Joe Bridger."

"We've checked a hundred freight trains, looking for him," the policeman said. "And just who would you be?"

Manning touched his badge. "I'll take him along," the policeman said. "He looks able to walk." He moved close to Gal and began to run his hands over the man.

"You needn't worry," Gal said, but it was to Manning that he spoke. "I left my hideout gun in Slash's yard the night you clouted me."

The policeman said to Manning, "You can make your report on him tonight or tomorrow, whichever you're so minded, marshal."

Manning said, "Deer lodge will tell you all you need to know. If I'm wanted, I'm staying at the Bristol tonight. Tomorrow I ride out."

"Come along, you," the policeman said and took Gal's good arm. (To Be Continued)

New Hormone Aids in Relief Of A Painful Bursitis Attack

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

BURSITIS is a source of much pain and anguish, especially after injuries to the knee.

Athletes, among others, should be glad to hear that a drug related to cortisone has given us a quicker and easier method of treating certain types of bursitis.

Lubricate Joints

This disease gets its name from the bursa, a small sac or pouch. These sacs are found in connection with the joints, to which they give a lubricating fluid. They can be compared to a grease cup of a machine, and act in much the same manner, except that the bursa manufactures its own lubricant. This prevents friction between the bone, muscles and tendons where they rub together at the joints.

An inflamed bursa may lead to bursitis, which can occur around any joint in the body. However, it is most frequently seen around the shoulder, elbow and knee.

Bursitis most commonly follows an injury, like a direct blow. Heavy exercise may also initiate an attack. Sometimes bursitis occurs from an infection in the bursa, the reason for which is not always apparent.

Severe Pain

The pain is limited to the joint area, but it can be very severe. An arm with an inflamed bursa becomes swollen and tender, and there is severe pain on movement. Attacks may be repeated, sometimes so frequently that the condition is practically constant.

In some cases, when the disease

becomes chronic, the bursa is stiffened by hard calcium deposits, and this just increases the difficulty.

Bursitis is usually difficult to treat and may be quite disabling. Sometimes cold packs applied when an attack first appears will help relieve it.

If an arm is affected, it is advisable to rest it, usually with a sling. Later, diathermy, hot packs and massage treatments are of help. Deep X-rays, too, are often helpful in certain cases.

New Hormone

Recently, a hormone called hydrocortisone acetate, or more commonly known as Compound F, has been used in treating bursitis. This drug is very similar to the hormone cortisone derived from the adrenal gland, which has given some relief in arthritis and other inflammations.

Small amounts of Compound F are injected into the inflamed bursa. Relief usually comes within 24 hours and may last for weeks, while in some cases it has been permanent.

Of course, treatment of this type must be carried out under the directions of the physician, for, after all, it is the doctor who must decide when any treatment is necessary, and for how long it should be continued.

Answer: No, freezing usually preserves rather than harms them. Excessive heat can be detrimental to vitamins.

Try, Stop Me

Long Island Railroad commuters will lend a most sympathetic ear to a tale told by witty "Bob" Casey in his book, "Chicago Medium Rare." A trainload aboard a Chi el was suddenly stranded at the Addison Street station. The motorman heard such a wild burst of cheering from the Cubs' baseball park as he brought the train to a stop that he unhooked his controls, opened the door, and hot-footed it to the bleachers where he arrived, for a seven-inning rally. The elevated line was tied up for forty-five minutes while the management sought frantically to dig up a new motorman—doubtless one who preferred the White Sox.

John Straley reports that some gagwriters paid a visit to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, but scowled at its masterpieces. "What

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, July 24—With a sharp hint that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey still has his heart set on the White House, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. charges that the Albany politician played a shady and deceptive politics in the current fight between private and public power interests over development of a $400 million Niagara river development.

Young FDR's analysis of Dewey's peculiar behavior has attracted unusual interest in Republican circles because many GOPsters share his suspicion, and because Roosevelt conferred with the governor on the Niagara matter. In short, this appears to be the most solid evidence so far presented that the 1944 and 1948 nominee wants to do a William Jennings Bryan.

Washington puts no stock in the notion that President Eisenhower will quit at the end of his present term, and try to throw the nomination to his convention crony. What the politicians expect is that the ambitious Dewey, in order to remain in the voters' eyes, will run again for governor next year, or be summoned here as secretary of state or attorney general. The New Yorker can afford to stand and wait until 1960. He is only 51 now.

DEWEY IMPRESSES — The only other explanation for Dewey's mishandling of the Niagara question is that he is unbelievably stupid and inept, and nobody believes that. In appearing before the Senate Public Works Committee, he impressed his audience with his suaveness and ability.

Dewey pleaded for Senate rejection of the House-enacted Dondero Bill, which authorizes five private power companies to develop Niagara hydroelectricity. He sponsors a measure which would turn the job over to his New York State Power Authority. Together with the Roosevelt-Lehman scheme for federal operation and ownership, the Dewey scheme was rejected in the lower chamber. Plumping for private enterprise, the House adopted the Dondero proposal by a 262-120 vote.

DELAYED MOVE — Although the Niagara issue has been a controversial question on Capitol Hill for years, Dewey did not bestir himself until mid-May. Then he persuaded Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge to ask Dondero's House Public Works Committee to defer any action and to turn the problem over to the Federal Power Commission for final disposition. Willard Gatchell, FPC counsel, is a Dewey man.

Since the White House, through Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, had previously favored private development, House Republicans were puzzled and angry. With unexpected haste, the committee approved the Dondero measure by a 14-7 line-up, and the Martin-Halleck leadership rushed it to the floor with emergency speed. They wanted to outmaneuver Dewey, also Eisenhower, if he intervened on behalf of the governor.

POSTPONEMENT — On discovering belatedly the existence of overwhelming House sentiment for private development, a White House aide offered to exert influence on behalf of the Dondero Bill, if it were needed. In the same conversation, however, the Eisenhower spokesman asked House leaders to postpone passage for a few days in order not to "hurt Dewey's feelings."

Dewey had come to Washington on the day of scheduled passage, supposedly to advocate the New York delegation's support of a waterfront crime law. But he utilized this White House reprieve to beg New York Republicans to vote for development of Niagara by his own State Authority.

His last-minute plea failed. Only one Empire State Republican of the 27-man delegation supported him, and only eight of 14 Democrats. It was a severe rebuff. Despite this setback, Dewey now makes the unprecedented request that the Senate undo the House work.

Young Roosevelt's explanation of this last-minute frenzy is that Dewey is not really concerned with the basic problem, but wants to pose as a public power advocate for political purposes.

Should he run again for President, according to this theory, Dewey would expect to carry the conservative East and Midwest, but he would need the electoral ballots of western states which favor public power. He would, it seems, preserve an issue — for himself — rather than solve a problem.

Living Cost Expected To Go On Higher

Dollar Buying Power Slipping Again After Encouraging Rally

By SAM DAWSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of eating is up again. The cost of living is likely to push still higher this month and next. The purchasing power of the dollar—which rallied for a time—is slipping again.

The government's official measuring stick for all this—the Consumer Price Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics—set a record high in mid-June, pushing through the previous record high set a year ago and touched again at election time.

The index measures what was happening to your pocketbook six weeks ago. Since then meat prices have gone up. The price of gasoline has been raised most places. Some basic industrial prices have gone up, too—steel and various chemicals.

True, the housewife doesn't run out to the store to buy a pound of steel. But she does buy things made of steel and processed by chemicals. And the cost of making these things will be rising.

Rents continue to rise here and there across the nation. Another jump may be in store for some folk living in areas still under federal rent controls, which are scheduled to be lifted shortly.

Getting to and from work is becoming more expensive for lots of folk. Transit fares have risen in a number of cities, and are due to rise in others.

Services of all kinds—hospital and doctor bills, fuel and power—continue under the pressure of rising costs. Mailing letters may become more expensive.

But there is a brighter side to all this if you look for it. This is the time of year that commodity prices tend to rise. Many things going up now are likely to slip back in a few months.

Weather plays a particularly big role right now. Drought, for example, has hurt the cotton crop in some important growing areas. This has boosted the price of cotton. The same drought has sent many cattle prematurely to market, lowering prices of beef for a time.

Now government loans to distressed ranchers have removed some of this pressure to sell cattle, and prices rebounded for a time at the stockyards. In other places good rains boosted the outlook for a bumper corn crop, weakening these prices.

The government's cost of living index, moreover, doesn't necessarily mirror your own case too accurately. The index reflects the list prices paid for items at the store and for rent and services. Smart shoppers can do a lot better than that.

Rope To Peace Theme Heard By Rotary

Speaking upon "The Rope to Peace," Jacques Schweiss, intern minister in Trinity Lutheran church, addressed Circleville Rotary Club Thursday noon to compare different rope knots to persons and their way of life and service to their community.

The many uses of a rope were told in a poem he related, uses which, he said, made the rope a servant to mankind.

Members of a Rotary Club are interested in service to a community and in the uplifting of mankind, Schweiss said. Many times the things that Rotary does are not recognized, but Rotarians can be proud of the service they render.

Some individuals have no desire to serve others, are interested in self only and shun acquaintances, Schweiss said. Others withdraw themselves from society while others pretend to live up to some ethical standard, but fail, for they are interested only in personal gain and not of service to the community. There are also those who lose personality and integrity as he thinks of himself alone, for a self seeker is a self loser, he said.

SCHWEISS MADE comparisons of the hangman's knot, the granny knot and the square knot to different kinds of people and said that the wrong application can be made of a knot just the same as a person can make the wrong application of service.

The square knot is the most reliable knot, he concluded, for it is dependable and will hold. Persons who use the square knot are citizens who are dependable, do good for the community and believe in service.

Virginia Hoping Polio Checked Now

BRISTOL, Va. (AP)—Both the gamma globulin and the lollipops finally gave out last night, but health authorities hoped they'd struck a blow toward checking a polio epidemic in this Virginia-Tennessee border area with the inoculation of 18,223 children in two days.

As the shots were completed, two more polio cases and one more death were reported, running the total since July 1 to 62 cases and three deaths in this section of more than 150,000 inhabitants.

The inoculations were held at four clinics, two each in Bristol and Washington County, Va. There have been 39 cases on the Virginia side of the area, 23 on the Tennessee side.

It stands to reason...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Big truck users, small truck users, all truck users buy more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. It stands to reason Chevrolet trucks must offer more of what you want.

Only Chevrolet Advance-Design Trucks offer all these features . . . yet it's the lowest-priced truck line!

TWO GREAT VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINES—The Loadmaster or the Thriftmaster—to give you greater power per gallon, lower cost per load. SYNCHROMESH TRANSMISSION—for fast, smooth shifting. HYPOID REAR AXLE—for dependability and long life. DUAL-SHOE PARKING BRAKE—for greater holding ability on heavy-duty models. WIDE-BASE WHEELS—for increased tire mileage. BALL-GEAR STEERING—for easier handling. UNIT-DESIGNED BODIES—for greater load protection. BATTLESHIP CAB CONSTRUCTION—double-walled, all-steel unit of great strength and durability.

MORE CHEVROLET TRUCKS IN USE THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

When you stop to think about it, the best proof of outstanding value in any product is continued public preference. For when folks discover a "good thing," sales go up and stay up. That's the way it is with Chevrolet trucks. Year after year Chevrolet trucks outsell all other makes. And they're the top selling trucks in America today . . . for the twelfth straight production year. This is a mighty important fact to consider before you buy your next truck. You'll also want to consider that, while Chevrolet trucks give you more features you want, it's the lowest-priced truck line of all! Whatever your hauling or delivery need, think it over, when you're thinking of a new truck. Then come in and talk it over with us.

Ted Williams

Returning To Sox

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams will be released by the Marine Corps about Aug. 1 and, conceivably, get back into the Boston Red Sox outfield before the end of the season.

"Whatever the Red Sox say, I'll do," Williams said. "I don't know if I'll be able to help anybody. I figure it will be a month before I'll really be ready."

Williams is undergoing treatment for an ear ailment which forced him to be grounded as a jet pilot in Korea.

Toledo Moving Close To Tribe

By The Associated Press
The Toledo Sox, clicking for five double plays, trimmed Kansas City 5-2 last night to move within six percentage points of the American Association leaders, Indianapolis.

Third-place Louisville, pulling up to three games off the pace, handed the skidding Indians their 10th loss in 14 starts, 6-3.

Don Bessent pitched St. Paul to a 3-0 shutout of Columbus. Gene Fowler hurled Charleston to a 4-1 decision over Minneapolis.

When the University of Florida and Rice meet in football in Houston on Sept. 19 it will be the first grid match between the two.

Braves Facing Do-or-Die Test In Brooklyn

Bums Feel Milwaukee On Ropes As Season Nears Stretch Drive

By The Associated Press

It takes a Brave team to invade Ebbets Field these days so Milwaukee opens a 4-game series in the home of the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight.

This is another of those "do or die" clashes that keep popping up all season. The Dodgers feel they've got the Braves on the ropes by now with a 5½ game lead and the season moving rapidly toward the two-thirds mark.

A 4-game Brooklyn sweep would pretty well write an unhappy ending to the first edition of Charlie Grimm's Milwaukee Fairy Tale. Although even a first division club probably will be welcome in the strike-bound brewery center which has gone hog wild over major league ball, a first year winner would have been mighty nice.

The Braves aren't through yet and they may be just the team to cool off the Dodgers who have won 10 of their last 11. Milwaukee is the only club in the league with a season's edge over the Dodgers in Brooklyn, having won three of the five games played there so far.

Both Brooklyn and the Braves were rained out yesterday so they'll go into tonight's game with a welcome day of rest. The Dodgers were supposed to play Chicago and Milwaukee was scheduled at Philadelphia. The rain also cut short the St. Louis Cardinals' series with the New York Giants. Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 7-0 in the only National League game played.

The big noise in the American League was the collapse of the New York Yankees in Cleveland for the third straight game. This time the World Champions looked like real country bumpkins as they were swamped, 10-2.

The Chicago White Sox muffed their chance to close in on the Yanks when they bowed to Boston, 4-3. The White Sox trail by 4½ games.

Detroit's slumbering Tigers popped up with a 4-game winning streak, taking a pair from Washington 9-6 in 10 innings and 5-4. The victories moved the Tigers within half a game of the seventh place St. Louis Browns who lost to Philadelphia, 7-4, in 14 innings.

Yanks Playing Bad Now, Old Casey Admits

CLEVELAND (AP)—Wise old Casey Stengel admitted today his first place New York Yankees are "playing bad every place," but reassured his followers he's "not so mad I'm going to faint."

After losing three straight to the third-place Cleveland Indians, including a 10-2 slaughter yesterday, Stengel appeared to be taking things in a philosophical way.

"My team has been a good club before and it will be a good ball club again," he said calmly.

"Right now," he pointed out, "we're playing bad every place. Not hitting, not pitching and not fielding too good. And maybe even I'm not managing too good. When you got all those things wrong, you are in trouble."

"We're disappointed in some of the players, but I believe they will come back. I think the whole club will come back and fool them."

The wrinkled veteran also made it clear he has a high regard for the Indians although they haven't lived up to advance predictions of being strong pennant contenders.

"I'm not going to blow up the Cleveland team, but they are a good ball club," he said. "Maybe they've lost some games recently, but they haven't died. They have the same players. Their pitchers are the same. Cleveland has done a very good job."

The series final yesterday saw the Indian bats pound out 14 hits while Early Wynn was holding the Yanks to six.

Bobby Jones Says Hogan 'Greatest'

NEW YORK (AP)—Atlanta's immortal Grand Slammer didn't flinch when he came face-to-face with golf's most discussed issue—who was better, Ben Hogan or Bobby Jones?

"People are running faster, jumping higher and jumping farther than ever before," Jones told a dinner group honoring Hogan last night. "It is only natural they should play golf better, too."

"Ben has proved they can."

It was a modest statement by a man who recognizes changing times and improving techniques.

Pressed further on the subject privately, Jones, who retired at 28 with 13 U. S. and British national championships, said:

"When I was 28 (that was the year of his grand slam) I thought I could hold my own with anyone over 72 holes. But I'm sure glad I didn't have to play that fellow Hogan."

"But in 1975 there will come an 11-3 and New Carlisle set back Lockbourne Air Base 5-2 yesterday in the first day's play of the double elimination tourney."

Stalin killed Trotsky and most of the old Bolsheviks, purging millions of persons, in order to leave no possibility of a challenge to his right to be an autocrat. Yet, it was not until World War II that Stalin, the hated, became Stalin the author of victory.

One phase of the present struggle in Russia is that there is no legitimate method for change of the top officials in Soviet Russia. Actually, in an autocracy, the only legitimate method of change can be by inheritance.

Stalin had re-established autocracy but failed to produce a method of inheritance. He could not pass the government to his son; he chose his closest associates, Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. But in an autocracy, as in a democracy, the head of state cannot be a committee.

Stalin must have known that because he was one of a committee of three, Kameney, Zinoviev and Stalin, who succeeded to Lenin's power. Stalin killed Kameney and Zinoviev and restored the czarist autocracy.

Malenkov has now removed Beria, but that does not solve his problem, for whereas he can, by murder, establish legitimate succession to Stalin, he has not been able to become an autocrat. He

Evening Is Most Dangerous

Tired Drivers Account For Many Crashes

Police Chiefs Give Suggestions For Safer Driving

Vacationing motorists ought to be most alert on the highway during the late afternoon and early evening hours.

A survey of several hundred police chiefs throughout the United States pointed to this period as the time when most collisions occur in the summer months.

Though excessive speed still holds the lead as the greatest single cause of accidents, the police chiefs said the over-tired driver, anxious to finish a long trip, accounts for many times more than his normal share of crashes during the summer months.

Following the car ahead too closely and unfamiliarity with local roads and traffic laws also cause more accidents than usual during the height of the vacation season.

EIGHTY-FIVE per cent of the police chiefs replying in the survey reported their communities are affected by the vacation travel caravan. Many police chiefs undertake special measures to meet the traffic problem created by the vacationing motorist.

Among the more usual of these measures are the stricter law enforcement, the recruiting and use of additional help, special safety drives and temporary re-routing of traffic.

Urging frequent patrol of heavily used roads, Chief Robert V. Murray of the Washington, D. C., police department said: "The frequent appearance of police officers along the roadway is the best reminder to the motorist that he is not the sole user of the highway and that he should comply with traffic regulations."

Sgt. Edward H. McFadden of the accident prevention bureau of the Kansas City police department suggested that on long trips motorists "pass the steering wheel instead of the bottle."

Chief Hector J. Pelletier of the Cohasset, Mass., police department advised a vacationing motorist to "make a little more use of his head and a little less of his right foot."

Chief Harry W. Strook of Richland, Wash., urged the development of improved recreational facilities near major communities so that the public would be encouraged to take shorter trips; and Chief Neil F. Anderson of Arcadia, Calif., called upon the automobile industry to stop publicizing horsepower and speed and to build cars which might be slower but more capable of withstanding the impact of a collision.

CHIEF W. J. Wisnom of Hillsborough, Calif., suggested that head-on crashes might be greatly reduced by eliminating left turns off main highways; and Sergeant Max M. Snow of Provo, Utah, suggested the deputizing of citizens to work with state highway patrols by turning in the license numbers of offenders.

Driver training in high schools throughout the country was urged by Assistant Chief Charles E. Branch of Ardmore, Okla., who said these courses produced "the most accident-free group I have dealt with."

Many communities have launched psychological attacks on careless drivers. In Midland, Mich., signs posted at the city outskirts read "High Accident Area—3 1/2 miles" and "57 injuries in 1951." On the Wilbur Cross Parkway at Vernon, Conn., a thought-provoking sign says: "In Life, as in Baseball, it's the Number of Times you Reach Home Safely That Counts."

5 Million Gallons Of Water 'Lost'

MIDWEST CITY, Okla. (P)—Puzzled city officials, admitting it would be tough to hide it in a bathtub, are trying to find out what happened to five million gallons of water last month.

Production from wells was nearly 55 million gallons but only 50 million went through the water meters.

Mayor Marion Reed said nearby Oklahoma City, plagued by a water shortage, was not suspected.

CONCORD, N. Y. (P)—They finally got around to sending James Cress Willeford Sr., his draft registration certificate.

Willeford registered on Sept. 12, 1918.

There's little likelihood that he'll shoulder arms. He's 80 years old.

Ohio GI Listed AWOL 7 Times

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (P)—William L. Shaffer of West Portsmouth doesn't like army life.

He has gone absent without leave seven times. On the fifth time he falsely confessed murdering a doctor to escape being returned. Yesterday, on his latest arrest, he asked Sheriff Burl Justice to charge him with carrying a concealed weapon.

But the sheriff found only a pocket knife on Shaffer, who reluctantly calls Camp Breckenridge, Ky., his base. He'll go back today.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (P)—A lost and found ad in the Albuquerque Journal asks for the return of a swimming pool which, the owner said, blew away on one of New Mexico's light breezes.

Senator Sure U.S. To Veto Red China Bid For U. N. Seat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said today that "as things stand now, I am sure we would use the veto" to block the entrance of Communist China into the United Nations.

Smith said he was greatly pleased at assurances given the Foreign Relations Committee by a former member, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., that this country can and should use its veto to keep Communist China out of the U. N.

Lodge, former Massachusetts senator and now chief U. S. representative to the U. N., testified before the committee yesterday in lively support of the world organization. It was his first report to Congress on his stewardship as U. N. ambassador.

Smith, who heads the Far East subcommittee of the foreign relations group, said he expected "a lot of heat" from America's friends "enemies to get Red China into the U. N. after a truce in Korea."

"THAT'S WHEN we're going to have to have a stiff backbone," he said.

Both branches of Congress are on record against admitting the Chinese Communists to the U. N. President Eisenhower has said he is against it under present world conditions. The United States has never recognized the Communist government in Peking, China's U. N. seat is occupied by the Chinese Nationalists.

But the New Jersey senator said he expects the Communists to put on an adroit campaign to get Red China into the U. N.

"I would not be at all surprised," he said, "if they offered to

Stevenson Fan New Dem Boss In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The political futures of Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) may have been greatly affected this week by quiet change of Democratic party bosses in Chicago.

The election of a "youngster," 51-year-old Richard J. Daley, as chairman of the party's Cook County Central Committee, puts a close friend and protégé of former Gov. Stevenson at the helm.

Daley's only opposition in Tuesday's election was from a faction closely associated with the "old" Cook County organization, once known as the Kelly-Nash machine.

Withdrawing from the contest for party leadership at the 11th hour was James J. (Big Jim) McDermott, a one-time member of the Kelly-Nash high council.

"I hope sincerely that Adlai Stevenson will stay in public life and permit his name to be used in the 1956 national convention," Dale declared today.

He also said he will give his full support as chairman of the county committee to Sen. Douglas whom he expects to be a candidate for reelection next year.

Leadership of the Cook County organization might have gone to a faction which has never been thoroughly sold on either Stevenson or Douglas.

During the days before the leadership change, several committee members let it be known they favored return to dyed-in-the-wool organization men for candidates.

Employment Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department reported today industry employed almost five million more workers in June this year than three years ago when the Korean War began in June 1950.

permit unification of Korea in return for admission. They might even agree to stop shooting in Indochina.

"If the Chinese Communist regime gets into the United Nations and consolidates its position, all of Asia will be lost."

Under the U. N. Charter, China is a permanent member of the Security Council, the most powerful unit of the organization. There has been some question whether the veto is applicable to the Red China situation. The veto clearly applies to the admission of a new member, but it has been argued that the substitution of representatives of one regime for another is a procedural question and not subject to the veto.

Chinese Open Bitter Attack

ROKS Catching Brunt Of New Savage Thrust

SEOUL (AP)—Two Chinese battalions of about 1,500 men slammed into Allied lines on the western front tonight after a thunderous Red artillery barrage.

Allied officers said the recklessly-attacking Communists hit Outpost Esther and another hill northeast of Panmunjom, the neutral truce site where negotiators were reported to have completed drawing a cease-fire line.

The new battle is close to Outposts Berliin and East Berlin, seized by the Reds this week from the U. S. 1st Marine Division.

Sketchy frontline reports said the Chinese swarmed over Allied positions and locked in hand-to-hand combat with U. N. infantrymen.

To the east, four Chinese companies in a daring daylight assault smashed to the crest of the rugged hill overlooking the Kumsong River bend after a savage nightlong battle with South Koreans.

REPORTS FROM the central front said the height changed hands three times in close combat.

The Chinese first scaled the Allied-held hill after a 4½-hour battle which began about midnight.

Lausche Vetoes Highway Measure

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche yesterday vetoed a bill to reorganize the state highway department. He said he vetoed it because:

1. It would remove a requirement the highway director be a licensed professional engineer, setting up separate divisions to be headed by engineers under the direction of a non-professional administrator.

2. It would fail to place the 12 highway division engineers under civil service.

The Legislature meets a week from today to study the veto.

Cincinnati Cop Faces New Trouble

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police Lt. Joseph Seiler, suspended Wednesday on complaint of a 17-year-old girl, faced more trouble today.

A blonde, 19, said she had dates with the married officer two years ago and went to a hotel with him.

Seiler was suspended after the other girl complained that he forced her to disrobe from the waist up. The newest complainant is known to the police as "Hard Boiled Angie."

Truce May Be Signed Sunday Reliable Source In Seoul Says

Teenagers Calmly Awaiting Fate After Brutal Murder

LOGAN (AP)—Two teenagers held in the brutal robbery-slaying of an oil worker today calmly awaited the official decision that might mean the difference between death in the electric chair or a few years in a boys' reformatory.

Juvenile Judge Rea Bangert of Hocking County said Joseph Giffin, 15, and his brother, George, 13, probably would be tried for the death of Ivor Dawley of New Straitsville in juvenile court.

Assistant Prosecutor Philip Henderson said conviction would mean commitment to boys' industrial school or a similar reformatory until they reached the age of 21.

But, if officials decide to try the boys in common pleas court, the charge, Henderson said, would be first-degree murder. Conviction then could mean life in prison or death in the electric chair.

Judge Bangert also said she was considering sending the two boys to the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus, a state institution where juveniles are studied. The stay there would be temporary, pending their trial.

Henderson said neither boy showed any remorse over the fatal shooting of Dawley, 60, an oil pumper who worked on pumps adjoining their farm home.

He said statements the boys signed showed they planned to kill and rob Dawley for two days prior to the shooting.

The motive, Henderson said, was robbery, apparently because the two boys were angry with their stepfather, George Sanders, and their mother, Rebecca Saunders.

The boys are accused of taking turns shooting into Dawley's body.

The Giffin boys stole $20 and Dawley's car after the shooting, Henderson said. They later wrecked the car, and while police were holding them, their mother telephoned to report the shooting.

Henderson said the last of four .22 caliber rifle bullets that struck Dawley was fired into the man's brain from six feet away as he sprawled on the ground.

The Sanders farm is in a sparsely populated area known as Sands Run Junction, 15 miles east of here. The slaying occurred several hundred yards from the house.

City Population Expands 9.3 Percent; County 5.2

Pickaway County's 6,785 families were supported on an average income of $2,540 per family in 1950, with 36.7 percent of the families receiving less than $2,000 and only 13.3 percent earning more than $5,000.

According to the U. S. Census Bureau's county and city data book, the 6,785 families represented a total population for the county of 29,352, ranking the county 970th in the United States and representing an average of 4.3 persons per family.

The county's 1950 census figures showed a 5.2 per cent increase in population over the 1940 census.

Circleville, on the other hand, showed a total population of 8,723 persons in 1950, an increase of 9.3 per cent over the 1940 tabulations.

SINCE the 1950 census was tabulated, it has been estimated the bright horizon of industrial possibilities here has caused the population to be increased by more than another 1,000 persons.

Chief attraction for the new residents of the city have been the new General Electric plant here and beginning of construction work on the new $10 million DuPont plant south of town.

In all, the Census Bureau lists Pickaway County with 507 square miles of land and 58 persons per square mile.

Of the total population in the county, 8,723 live in Circleville, 12,298 persons are non-farm rural residents and 8,331 persons make up the rural farm population.

As of 1950, there were 2,810 youngsters under five years old in the county and 2,983 who were 65 and over. The median age of the county's residents was a young 29.1 years.

For the year of 1950, there were 568 live births in the county, only 289 deaths and 25 infant deaths. There were 129 couples who married during the year.

THERE WERE 4,685 children in Circleville and Pickaway County schools. Of the total population over 25 years old, the average person had completed 8.8 years of schooling; 14.5 per cent had completed less than five grades; 30 per cent had completed high school.

During 1950, 8,774 countians were gainfully employed; 2,677 in agriculture; 19 in mining; 586 in construction; 1,296 in manufacturing; 592 in public utilities; 1,535 in wholesale and retail trade; 177 in finance, real estate and insurance; 347 in business and personal services; and 823 in professional and related services.

Agriculture listed 30.5 per cent of the total working force in the county, with only 14.8 per cent of the population employed in manufacturing.

Housing was acute in 1950 and continues acute now. The data shows there were 7,177 dwelling units in Pickaway County during 1940 and only 7,786 in 1950, an increase of 609 structures. Since 1950, the housing program has been increasing here, but it still is inadequate.

In 1950, only 39.4 per cent of the homes had hot running water, toilet and bath and were not dilapidated. An average of three tenants occupied each dwelling, with 54.6 per cent of the housing units occupied by their owners.

Of the total housing units, 30 per cent had central heating units; 76.4 per cent had refrigerators; and 95.6 per cent had radios. In the non-farm dwelling units, average monthly rent was set at $33.61.

Special Council Meeting Set To Speed Watt Sewer Work

Gerhardt explained the special meeting, technically, can only consider matters relating to the sewer job. It seems almost certain, however, that Council also will discuss details of Circleville's municipal court after the formal business is ended.

Notices for a special meeting of City Council were being prepared for distribution Friday.

Signed by the Mayor and served by the city police department, the notices will make it definite that Council will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday for special deliberations. Plans for the extra huddle were pinned down at the last regular meeting of the lawmakers.

Notices prepared by City Solicitor George Gerhardt stipulated the meeting will be held to discuss details of the Watt S. sewer project. Council feels the project finally has a clear track ahead and wants to hurry the work for completion this year.

Pee-Yew!! Boys Get Wrong Skunk

JAMBOREE CITY, Calif. (AP)—Two Ohio boys spent last night scrubbing themselves in the shower.

Dale Ottney and Phil Matha of Gibsonburg, went out hunting yesterday for a fellow scout's lost housebroken skunk. They found a skunk but learned to their dismay it was not deodorized.

The men, all from Hollidaysburg, Pa., went into the remote area, 65 miles from here, without local guides on June 12 to shoot bears.

They were Eugene H. Lindsey, 45, whose skeletal, skull-less remains were found last week; his son Richard, 17, and Fred Clair, 20.

The youths' bones were discovered yesterday at an abandoned logging camp four miles from another camp which had yielded the remains of the elder Lindsey. Both sites were criss-crossed by bear tracks. The bush country lies along an upper branch of the St. Jean River, far from the picturesque coastal road familiar to many American tourists.

Only one skull was found. A medical expert said bears could have eaten the two missing heads.

Police said a set of upper teeth were found and were believed to have been Clair's. Nearby was a white sweatshirt with the words "Hollidaysburg Tigers." A white sweater was found stained with blood and with a small, circular hole, as if made by a bullet.

Widely scattered about were rib bones, parts of spinal columns, leg and arm bones. Two hip bones were found on the far side of the stream. Strenuous about were bits of chewed clothing, a watch believed to have been young Lindsey's and other small possessions.

Searchers said none of the bones appeared to have been broken by human violence but all had been gnawed and dragged about, apparently by bears which followed up the murderer.

Relatives and friends of the hunters in Hollidaysburg and nearby Altoona, Pa., pressed for a complete investigation of the killings. A group of Altoona sportsmen last night urged that the famed Royal Canadian Mounted Police be assigned to the probe. The group said it would wire Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.), urging him to ask the State Department and the FBI to enlist the Mounties' aid.

The hunters left their Pennsylvania home June 5, to be gone two weeks. Their relatives set up the alarm when no word was heard from them three weeks later. Police began a wide search.

Yet, Rhee added, "It has been announced there is agreement that there will be no time limit on the armistice."

Rhee Is Seen Only Possible Hitch In Plan

ROK Chieftain Claims Allies Tell Him One Thing, Reds Another

SEOUL (Saturday)—(AP)—A usually reliable source said last night the Korean armistice probably will be signed Sunday.

The informant, who is close to the truce talks but cannot otherwise be identified, said only a last-minute hitch stemming from President Syngman Rhee's opposition could block the signing.

The informant said announcement of the signing date could be expected today. He said he did not know the "contemplated hour of the ceremony which would formalize a cease-fire in the war, now more than three years old."

The signing date probably was set, tentatively at least, by senior liaison officers at a meeting in Panmunjom yesterday (Friday).

A full-dress session of the main delegation might be held today to approve the date.

This announcement came as Rhee angrily denounced an armistice and declared that the Allies had promised him one thing and the Communists another.

The stubborn old South Korean President acknowledged that a truce was imminent and said he is anxious "not to follow a unilateral policy, if it can be avoided."

Rhee has threatened several times in the past to pull out of the U. N. and fight on alone.

In a strongly worded statement, Rhee accused the Allies of giving the Communists pledges which "render impossible a fulfillment" of some of South Korea's basic understandings with the United States.

HE SAID HIS agreement with Assistant U. S. Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's truce envoy, provided:

Senate Backs Ike In Air Fund Slash

200 New Jet Bombers Refused As Republican Party Line Holds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson have won their long battle to cut funds and target goals of the Air Force.

Without a record vote, the Senate late yesterday shouted approval of a bill carrying $34,434,140,500 to operate the defense establishment for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The real tests had come earlier after lengthy, angry debate.

First, by a 55-38, rollcall, the Senate rejected an effort by Sen. Maybank (D-SC) to give the Air Force an additional $400 million to order 200 B47 jet bombers, capable of delivering atomic bombs.

This was the big test, since it was the first to come to a vote. Republican lines held firm against the increase and they picked up 9 valuable Democratic votes to add to the 46 GOP ones. Voting for Maybank's amendment were 37 Democrats and 1 Independent.

IF MAYBANK'S move had succeeded, other Democrats planned amendments to restore more of the $5 billion cut from former President Truman's Air Force budget by the GOP.

Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz.) lost 48-41 in an effort to add about $50 million to step up pilot training.

He recalled that many World War II pilots had been called back into service in Korea and said Congress should train enough pilots to avoid this in the future.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), floor manager for the bill, said the Air Force should be able to turn out 8,300 new pilots this year in addition to some 47,000 now trained.

Not a change was made in the bill as it had been reported by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A conference committee will be named to adjust Senate-House differences.

One Senate provision may cause trouble there. It would end the recent policy of giving areas of high

Brooklyn Beer In Milwaukee Brings Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional argument over the National Baseball League pennant race has produced a hint that Brooklyn beer may be responsible for the slump of the Milwaukee Braves.

In fact, claims Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis.), an ardent Braves rooster, "there is grave suspicion" that a strike in Milwaukee breweries "might have been instigated" by other National League cities, particularly Brooklyn.

Brooklyn has held the league lead since June 28 when Milwaukee dropped to second after the two clubs see-sawed in the top spot.

So long as Milwaukee's famous beer was available to "put new life into the Milwaukee Braves," O'Konski said in a statement in the Congressional Record, the Braves were doing fine and "had the borough of Brooklyn in jitters."

But along came a strike that has closed all Milwaukee breweries for the last six weeks, O'Konski said, and "there has been a very serious drought" in Milwaukee.

He said the Braves had "to use these cheap imitations" imported from other National League cities, and "they went into a slight slump which accounts for the Brooklyn Dodgers leading in the race at this moment."

Columbus Strike May Be Near End

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus went into the ninth day of a transit strike today with strong indications it would end soon.

A meeting between the striking CIO Transport Workers Union and the Columbus Transit Co. was scheduled today. The company indicated last night it was ready to resume negotiations with the union on its demands for a 23½ cent an hour wage increase and a reduction of the present 48-hour work week to 40 hours.

Mrs. McGhie, mother of four other children, claimed yesterday that Dennis R. Kelly was her son. Kelly was the adopted child of the late Edmund P. and Bess M. Kelly, wealthy Columbus residents.

Young Kelly inherited his wealth from his adopted parents but died at the age of 20 last Feb. 12 of pneumonia in an Army camp. He left no will. Relatives of the elder Kellys laid claim to his estate.

Mrs. McGhie claims the estate should go to her as Kelly's natural mother. She asked the court to declare her Kelly's heir.

She told the court she thought her son, Richard Allen Sigler, died in an Evanston, Ill., adoption home shortly after his birth, July 26, 1932.

But a Chicago genealogist, John Love, told her last April that Richard did not die but was adopted by the Kellys.

"I had to tell my present husband—win, lose or draw," she said. "I said, 'Well; here goes my happy home.' He knows about it now."

didn't go through. I agree it's something that nobody in his right mind would oppose."

The resolution called for a statewide survey of the problems in Ohio behind the juvenile delinquency picture. Had it been adopted, steps were ready to urge that the Circleville area be covered by any studies made.

Circleville's Police Chief Elmer Merriman has mentioned several times that the dangers placed before local youth are far greater than the public here realizes. He emphasized that much of the picture is hidden from the public by the fact that law violations are not established.

In connection with the legislature's failure to adopt the resolution, Wallace said he favors holding a legislative session each year instead of every other year.

"Things are moving too fast and piling up too high," he said. "We should go back into session each January to get the business cleared up."

WALLACE SAID he had no late information on progress of the Route 23 bypass controversy. The dispute over the state's plan to loop the highway around the west side of Circleville has been in a long stall.

Rulings are awaited on key questions from the state attorney general's office.

Calling attention to the roar and clatter of traffic passing on Court St. at the time, Wallace commented:

"But you know the bypass is going through, because the people just aren't going to stand for this."

Hoover, Farley Named By Ike To New Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today appointed former President Herbert Hoover and James A. Farley, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, public representatives on a new commission on government reorganization.

Eisenhower named Atty. Gen. Brownell and Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, representatives of the government's executive branch.

Under the law creating the commission, eight additional members will be designated by Congress. Vice President Nixon and House Speaker Martin each will designate 4 members—2 from the Senate, 2 from the House and 4 from private life.

Congress members said earlier this week they looked for Hoover to serve as chairman.

The new commission will have considerably broader authority than the old Hoover commission on government reorganization had. The former President headed that unit from the time it was set up in 1947 until it completed its work in 1949.

Hoover said the new assignment would be difficult because "there are a lot of sore toes on Capitol Hill that don't like to be stepped on."

Six Seamen Missing As Ship Explodes

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A sea-going tanker exploded and burned alongside a dock last night and checkups today showed seven men missing, six of them crewmen from tugboats that were caught by the blast.

The 9,179-ton tanker Pan-Georgia was completing discharge of its 110,000 barrel cargo of fuel oil and high octane gasoline when flames spouted from one of the holds.

A check of the Pan Georgia's crew list showed all but one man, Ray Ott, of Galeston, Tex., the second assistant engineer, had been accounted for. Ship officers said he apparently drowned after leaping overboard.

In Philadelphia, the Curtis Bay Towing Co. reported it had been unable to account for six crewmen aboard its tugs, the J. H. Deinein and the Otoco. Both tugs were standing by the Pan Georgia at the time the fire started.

Of the other crew members, 24 were rescued by Coast Guard and Army engineer rescue boats and brought to Red Cross headquarters in Wilmington. Another eight were admitted to Delaware Hospital where two are in critical condition from burns.

It was the second tragedy in little more than a month involving bulk carriers vessels. On June 6, the Pan Massachusetts and the Phoenix collided at Port Penn, 15 miles south of here, causing a spectacular fire and taking three lives.

to a destination of their own choice."

Yet, Rhee said, "The so far uncontradicted report from Panmunjom directly states that this will not be done. This cannot be allowed to happen."

REEHE SAID that during his conferences with Robertson "I asked him, as a major basis for my reluctant agreement to postpone our plans for dealing with the enemy aggressors, to give me assurances that the United States would either jointly resume the fighting with us (if the political conference failed) or if this cannot be done, that it would back our efforts with moral and material support in addition to the proposed economic aid."

"I am sure he is doing all he can," Rhee said, "but while a truce seems imminent, I have had no word on this crucial matter."

Rhee flew to U. S. 1st Corps headquarters later in the day to present the corps with the ROK presidential unit citation.

Last month Rhee nearly wrecked an armistice when he ordered the release of about 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners. And earlier this week he warned that South Korea will follow its own course of action unless the Chinese Reds agree within six months after an armistice is signed to evacuate North Korea.

Friday Rhee said he is "still waiting hopefully for word" from Washington that the agreement he reached with Robertson in Seoul last month has "not been sacrificed to the demands of the Communist enemy."

A young motorist chased into Pickaway County from Franklin County was fined $25 and costs Thursday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

The driver, Tommy Whittman, 19, of Lucasville Route 3, was arrested for reckless operation of a motor vehicle by two deputy sheriffs who chased him in a Franklin County cruiser. The deputies made the arrest after the chase on Route 23 led into Harrison Township.

Whittman, accompanied by three other youths at the time, said he was unable to pay the fine immediately and was placed in Pickaway County jail. Affidavit was signed by Franklin County Deputy Robert Slade.

Mother Aids Cops In Hunt For Her Son

CLEVELAND (AP) — The gray-haired, blind woman raised her head as detectives entered her living room in search of her son.

"Coid is here now," she said.

A few minutes later, the son, Coid Mescudi, 30, lay dead with two police bullets in his body.

Before the detectives caught up with him yesterday, Mescudi, had wounded two relatives and caused his estranged wife to leap off a second-story porch at another house. Police said he went berserk after his wife rebuffed his reconciliation attempt.

When Detectives Harold Boyett and James Brewer walked into the home of Mescudi's 52-year-old mother, Mrs. Ethel Mescudi, the fugitive was sitting with her in the living room.

They said Mescudi leaped to his feet, cursed his mother and yelled, "They won't take me alive!" He fled to the kitchen and started to jump out a window before the officers could grab him. He was shot in a struggle that followed.

A few hours earlier, Mescudi had gone to the home of his wife, Ethel, 30. Police said he became enraged, fired a rifle bullet through the shoulder of his brother-in-law, John Ferguson, 18; frightened his wife into leaping from the porch and slashed her mother, Mrs. Mattie Ferguson, 48, on an arm with a piece of glass.

Beria's German Buddy Purged

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Red Gestapo boss, Wilhelm Zaisser, has been fired as Minister of State Security, it was officially announced tonight.

Zaisser, notorious commander of international brigades in the Spanish Civil War as "General Gomez," was replaced by Ernest Wollweber, former head of state security for shipping. Zaisser used to boast he had a direct telephone line to Lavrenty P. Beria, the ousted Soviet secret police boss.

Showdown Looming On Ike's Demand For Postal Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders may try to force a showdown today or tomorrow on the Eisenhower administration's demand for higher postal rates.

Republican leader Halleck of Indiana said he hopes to get the controversial rate bill out of the Postoffice Committee in time for House consideration Monday.

He conceded he might be overly optimistic, but said he would insist on some committee action to find out where the administration stands in one of the hottest session-end battles on Capitol Hill.

The proposed rate boosting bill is the target of foes openly seeking to stall off action until Congress adjourns in a week or two.

Chairman Rees (R-Kan) stepped up committee activity by calling night sessions in an effort to finish hearing witnesses waiting to protest the effect of higher postage costs on their businesses.

THE BILL, on President Eisenhower's "must" list, would hike postal rates $240 million a year to ease a postoffice deficit running more than $500 million. The largest share of the increase would be borne by first class and airmail users, who would pay a penny more for stamps.

Committee foes of the bill yesterday blocked attempts to end the hearings tomorrow and get down to drafting a bill.

The test, as soon as the committee concludes hearings, is likely to come on Postmaster General Summerfield's request for 1-cent increases on first class and air mail. Together, they would produce an estimated $165 million in additional revenue.

If these increases are approved, members believe the committee would proceed without much argument to approve other increases affecting newspapers, magazines and books.

City Man Fights For Control Of Truck, But Loses

A Circleville man fought a hard battle early Friday in an effort to bring his swerving dump truck under control, but to no avail.

The truck, loaded with hot-mix road material, went over a bank along Island Road just west of Circleville at about 10:30 a. m. Friday and upset on its side at the edge of a cornfield.

Deputy Carl White said the driver, Paul Stevens, 26, of S. Washington St., told him either the load had shifted or the steering mechanism locked.

Stevens said he fought for control of the wheel, even by bracing his foot on the dash.

The truck was not badly damaged in the mishap, but a badly bent steering wheel bore mute evidence of the fight Stevens put up. The driver suffered only a scratch on his back.

3 New Teachers Are Hired In County Schools

Three new teachers have been employed in Pickaway County's school system, completing teaching staffs in two schools.

Washington Township board of education has employed Mrs. Doris Roe Briggs, now attending Ohio University, as first grade teacher. Mrs. Briggs replaces Mrs. Pearl Porter, who resigned to take a post in Circleville schools.

Monroe Township has employed Mrs. Sylvia Akers of Logan Route 2 to teach grades three and four. Mrs. Akers was trained in State Teachers College, Tenn., and has six years of experience in teaching.

County Superintendent George McDowell said the Washington and Monroe Township Schools have completed their 1953-54 staffs with the employment of Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Akers.

Darby Township has hired Mrs. Emerson Ward of Mt. Sterling to teach second grade. Mrs. Ward formerly taught in Ashville school, and succeeds Miss Mabel Stewart, who resigned to work in Ironton schools.

but were shoved down the slopes by counterattacking ROKs at dawn. The hill was quiet for a few hours, then was recaptured in a savage Red charge at noon which was protected by overcast skies that grounded Allied warplanes.

The U. S. 8th Army reported Allied artillery caught five Chinese companies of about 800 soldiers in the open in the Kumhwa-Kumson Valley on the central front and killed or wounded 270 Reds.

American and South Korean troops overpowered the Reds in six of nine other savage battles across the war-torn peninsula.

The South Koreans caught the brunt of what could be some of the final fighting in the 3-year war. They counterattacked on four central front hills lost to the Reds this week, and recaptured one in a bloody fight with hand grenades and rifle butts.

World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—With a Korean truce apparently very close, what benefits did the United States get from three years of fighting?

At the moment these seem to be the positive benefits:

1. The Communists' first post-war aggression was stopped and the South Korean Republic was saved from them.
2. The United Nations, of which the United States is the main supporter, met its first big challenge: Could the members act together to stop aggression? They could and did.
3. The shock of the Korean invasion pushed the Western world into a big re-armament and closer alliance, thus making it a tougher target for bigger attack later, if the Communists planned one.
4. Small countries, seeing the U. N. rush to Korea's rescue, were heartened to withstand any future pressures and threats from the Communists.

Summed up, this was the net effect of the four benefits: The United States, because of its re-arming, is in better shape to handle Russia, if it has to, than it was before Korea. Communist expansion, for those three years at least, was stopped cold.

Yet, these benefits which seem so obvious and real now, may in the end prove to have been illusory and temporary. The whole Korean War, because of future events, may turn out to have been wasted effort by the United States.

Why? Because Korea, through infiltration and subversion, may yet wind up in the Communist camp.

And China, with time to grow stronger economically and militarily after a truce, may be able to terrorize the rest of Asia into submission without the necessity of direct military attack.

The Western Allies, through fatigue, economic entanglements with the Communist bloc, or disagreements with the United States, may grow soft toward Moscow and move closer to it than before Korea.

A severe depression in Western Europe, for instance, would be a supreme test of each country's ability to resist Communist pressure, internally and externally.

The people of the United States, long tired of the Korean War, later on may be reluctant—to the point of being too late—to move against new Communist aggression elsewhere.

But guesses about the future are not the meat of action. The Eisenhower administration can not feed upon guesses in trying to reach decisions and peace in Asia.

It can only hope that what seem now like positive gains from the Korean War will prove, in the history books of the future, to have been true and lasting benefits.

To make them last the administration will have to work ceaselessly for the rest of its term, with its eyes wide open.

In the peace negotiations with the Chinese one wrong decision on the part of the United States could lead to such disaster for this country and such victory for communism that the whole Korean War would have been in vain.

Maryland Corn Gets Good Rain

BALTIMORE (AP)—Agricultural experts figure a soaking rain that fell Wednesday night and early Thursday was worth about 25 million dollars to Maryland corn farmers.

Spokesmen at the University of Maryland College of Agriculture said about half of the 469,000 acres of corn, worth from $75 to $125 an acre, would have been lost if the rain hadn't come along to break up a month-long drought.

Tot Rides Bumper Of Speeding Truck

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP)—Red light flashing and siren screaming, State Patrolman Kenneth Thomason chased a pickup truck for two miles south of here last night. When he finally halted Mrs. Albert Lynes, the Lynes' 3-year-old daughter, Mary Margaret, climbed from the front bumper of the truck and greeted her parents.

Thomason said the tot evidently had ridden on the front of the truck for 10 miles at speeds between 45 and 50 m.p.h. The parents thought the girl was home in bed.

He Pledges Pint Blood Each Year

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The Tulsa County Red Cross blood center's champion donor is William I. Nichols, 50, whose goal is a pint for every year of his life.

He has given the center 21 pints after making 15 blood donor trips to hospitals before the center was established.

Nichols' complaint is they won't let him give blood after he's 60. "Shucks," he said, "a normal boy fighting his way through school would lose more blood than donors are permitted to give."

Republican Henry J. Burke seeks re-election as a Schenectady county supervisor. Democrat Bernard P. Bukowski Sr. is running against him. They are cousins.

Poor Gamblers Had Tough Year

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts bookies had a poor year, indeed, based on the taxes they paid the federal government.

Internal Revenue Director Thomas Scanlon said last night the 226 dutifully-registered Massachusetts bookies paid a total of but $36,879 in excise taxes in the fiscal year ended last June 30.

The excise tax is 10 per cent of the gross take. That would put average gross receipts at $1,630 per bookie, as the average tax paid was $163.

Gambling is illegal in Massachusetts, except for horse and dog track pari-mutuel betting.

SALISBURY STAKE

REPORTS PERSIST that Prime Minister Churchill will hang up his spats and bowler in the near future. Indomitable Winnie, now on an enforced hiatus for his health, is said to be waiting for the chance to play one last big scene on the world stage before bowing out.

As co-stars he would like to have Eisenhower and whoever qualify at the time as chiefs of state of Russia and France. Subject: World peace.

In the recent conferences in Washington, the Big Three tentatively set the machinery in motion for the Churchill-conceived finale. The British representative, Acting Foreign Minister Lord Salisbury, brought the subject up on the prime minister's orders, but was quick to accede to modifications proposed by the U. S.

The meeting, if it is held—and there is doubt—will feature first only members of the supporting cast, the foreign ministers, and be confined to topics which the Russians have never shown much stomach for before. This includes German unity and the Austrian peace treaty.

A most significant consideration is the attitude of Lord Salisbury himself. This member of Britain's prominent Cecil family who would doubtless succeed to the foreign ministry were Eden to assume Churchill's mantle has a long record as an anti-appeaser. As Eden's assistant, he walked out with the latter in protest over Chamberlain's pre-World War II sop to Hitler.

More recently, Salisbury has denounced British recognition of the Chinese Reds. Salisbury, given a full voice in international affairs, could become an important spokesman for the free world's cause.

NEW INDIAN POLICY

NEWLY - NAMED INDIAN Commissioner Glenn Emmons, New Mexico banker, says he will propose rapid liquidation of government stewardship of the Indians. Emmons agrees with those who contend that a well-intentioned but confused paternalistic policy has kept the Indians as children in an adult's world. Emmons would accelerate the process by which they may become increasingly self-sufficient as a people and be turned loose into the main stream of American life.

The new commissioner proposed to reclaim unproductive reservation acreage to help farm-minded Indians to operate as individuals and would encourage tribal industries for those who prefer non-agrarian pursuits. Health and education policies would continue to be encouraged.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Governments, like individuals, seek legitimacy, if it is possible. Even governments which are the products of revolution desire a continuing relationship with the past, once the revolution and the attendant reign of terror are over.

Respectability requires not only a due regard for national traditions, but a nexus with the historic past of the nation.

It was this sense of relationships which so impressed Talleyrand and impelled Napoleon to cast aside his wife, Josephine, and to marry into the Hapsburgs, which thus made his progeny, if not himself, the legitimate ruler of France. He married into regal respectability. The same motive dominated the thinking of the Holy Alliance after the Conference of Vienna in 1815.

Even in China, where the people were accustomed to changes in dynasties, several of them of non-Chinese origin, legitimacy played so great a role that Sun Yat-sen changed the capital from Peking to Nanking because the North refused to acknowledge him. After his death, he was deified by public opinion.

Thereupon, Chiang Kai-shek established himself as Sun Yat-sen's heir and ruled the country with that sanction. Even Mao Tse-tung finds it advantageous to use Mme. Sun Yat-sen in his government because it gives his regime an aura of legitimacy.

The Russian Revolution started as a palace uprising with Prince Lvov in charge, supported by members of the Romanov family. When Kerensky took over, his was called the Provisional Government and an effort was made to find some continuing basis in traditional Russian life and government.

The Constituent Assembly was called for the purpose of giving Democratic authority to the change of regime. I was present at this meeting in 1917 when the Bolsheviks killed the Constituent Assembly. In terms of political organization, that was the effective climax of the Russian Revolution.

Lenin and Trotsky founded the Soviet State as a revolutionary act, based upon the will of a minority, accompanied by a devastating terror. Civil war and foreign intervention provided a justification for the terror, as they had for the French Revolutionists who eventually succumbed to Napoleon.

The Lenin regime was alien, based upon the concepts of a German philosopher, Karl Marx. However, as the years passed, the pull of tradition was so great that autocracy rather than dictatorship of the proletariat reasserted itself. Autocracy is an indigenous Russian concept of government. Ivan the Terrible is a Russian prototype of ruler and he became Stalin's hero. Thus Stalin departed from the Marxist-Leninist ideas of government and restored the normal Russian method, autocracy. But Stalin needed legitimacy which Lenin never tried to establish. Stalin created a god—Lenin. Everything he did was in the name of Lenin.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
SEATED with Manning in the restaurant, Laura propped her elbows on the edge of the table and asked, "What about Gal?"

"I'd guess that he's ridden out with the rest of Slash 7's crew," he said. "But even if he hasn't, I can't go after him. Don't you see? I can't be a part-time lawman, letting one man go but chasing another. It's whole hog or none. That's why I wouldn't have shot Ruxton if he hadn't forced me."

"I see," she said. "You've decided not to arrest Gramp, so you can't in conscience arrest Gal, either."

"Closed case," he said. "And where does that leave you, Cole?"

He shrugged. "Right back where I started." He felt humble now, looking at her; but there was one thing that remained unchanged for him.

"You see," he said, "you were right about my wanting to stand higher than Flint Manning. Once he'd failed, so that made a chance for me. Only he didn't really fail; I know that now. As it turned out, he proved himself bigger even than the badge he wore. There will be no topping him now, ever."

She said, "You had a big choice to make, too. Today."

"But it was a second choice," he said. "Flint had already made it. And he had less reason to let Doc Brownlee go free."

"Less reason, Cole?"

"Yes," he said. "There was no one like you mixed into it for him."

He stood up then and came around the table and bent over her. He cupped her face in his hands and bent and kissed her, not caring who looked on. "Goodbye, Laura," he said.

"Cole!" she cried. "Is it because you can't stay? Because the Bootjack would always remind you of failure?"

"Something like that," he said.

"Then I'll come to the Marias!"

"You'd bring the Bootjack with you," he said and walked from the restaurant.

He was taking, he supposed, his last look at Manning; and as he passed the brick hospital, it seemed to him the biggest thing in the world. No, not quite. The biggest thing was that statue of Flint Manning anchoring the end of the street.

"Let's have a look at it." "Get away from me," Gal growled and shrank against the building. "I want nothing from you."

Gal's face was a haggard mask in which those blue eyes blazed. "All those years in stony loneliness," he muttered. "They slowed me down. They slowed me down. Once I'd have been able to give anyone with your speed an edge and still split his heart before he could ear back the hammer. My speed is just one more thing a Manning took away from me."

Manning said, "I wish I could take away your hate." He came close to Gal and reached out and felt of his arm. "I don't think the bone is broken," Manning said. He whipped off his bandana and wadded it and handed it to Gal. "Here, hold this against the wound."

Feet pounded along the walk. Someone drawn by the shot, Manning thought. A blue-uniformed figure snapped up, a right stick swinging. "What's going on here?" demanded a voice with a touch of brogue to it.

"Nothing to worry about, officer," Manning said. "You've got someone here who needs a doctor, though." He remembered the decision he'd made about Gal in Manning's and felt a last regret. "You'll find you've bagged a prize. This man is an escaped convict from Deer lodge. He's down on the books as Joe Brigger."

"We've checked a hundred freight trains, looking for him," the policeman said. "And just who would you be?"

Manning touched his badge. "I'll take him along," the policeman said. "He looks able to walk." He moved close to Gal and began to run his hands over the man.

"You needn't worry," Gal said, but it was to Manning that he spoke. "I left my hideout gun in Slash 7's yard the night you clouted me."

The policeman said to Manning, "You can make your report on him tonight or tomorrow, whichever you're so minded, marshal."

Manning said, "Deer lodge will tell you all you need to know. If I wanted, I'm staying at the Bristol tonight. Tomorrow I ride out."

"Come along, you," the policeman said and took Gal's good arm. (To Be Continued)

New Hormone Aids in Relief Of A Painful Bursitis Attack

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

BURSITIS is a source of much pain and anguish, especially after injuries to the knee.

Athletes, among others, should be glad to hear that a drug related to cortisone has given us a quicker and easier method of treating certain types of bursitis.

Lubricate Joints

This disease gets its name from the bursa, a small sac or pouch. These sacs are found in connection with the joints, to which they give a lubricating fluid. They can be compared to a grease cup of a machine, and act in much the same manner, except that the bursa manufactures its own lubricant. This prevents friction between the bone, muscles and tendons where they rub together at the joints.

An inflamed bursa may lead to bursitis, which can occur around any joint in the body. However, it is most frequently seen around the shoulder, elbow and knee.

Bursitis most commonly follows an injury, like a direct blow. Heavy exercise may also initiate an attack. Sometimes bursitis occurs from an infection in the bursa, the reason for which is not always apparent.

Severe Pain

The pain is limited to the joint area, but it can be very severe. An arm with an inflamed bursa becomes swollen and tender, and there is severe pain on movement. Attacks may be repeated, sometimes so frequently that the condition is practically constant.

In some cases, when the disease

becomes chronic, the bursa is stiffened by hard calcium deposits, and this just increases the difficulty.

Bursitis is usually difficult to treat and may be quite disabling. Sometimes cold packs applied when an attack first appears will help relieve it.

If an arm is affected, it is advisable to rest it, usually with a sling. Later, diathermy, hot packs and massage treatments are of help. Deep X-rays, too, are often helpful in certain cases.

New Hormone

Recently, a hormone called hydrocortisone acetate, or more commonly known as Compound F, has been used in treating bursitis. This drug is very similar to the hormone cortisone derived from the adrenal gland, which has given some relief in arthritis and other inflammations.

Small amounts of Compound F are injected into the inflamed bursa. Relief usually comes within 24 hours and may last for weeks, while in some cases it has been permanent.

Of course, treatment of this type must be carried out under the directions of the physician, for, after all, it is the doctor who must decide when any treatment is necessary, and for how long it should be continued.

Try, Stop Me

Long Island Railroad commuters will lend a most sympathetic ear to a tale told by witty "Bob" Casey in his book, "Chicago Medium Rare." A trainload aboard a Chi El was suddenly stranded at the Addison Street station. The motorman heard such a wild burst of cheering from the Cubs' baseball park as he brought the train to a stop that he unhooked his controls, opened the door, and hot-footed it to the bleachers where he arrived, for a seven-inning rally. The elevated line was tied up for forty-five minutes while the management sought frantically to dig up a new motorman—doubtless one who preferred the White Sox.

John Straley reports that some gagwriters paid a visit to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, but scowled at its masterpieces. "What

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, July 24—With a sharp hint that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey still has his heart set on the White House, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. charges that the Albany politician played a shady and deceptive politics in the current fight between private and public power interests over development of a $400 million Niagara river development.

Young FDR's analysis of Dewey's peculiar behavior has attracted unusual interest in Republican circles because many GOPsters share his suspicion, and because Roosevelt conferred with the governor on the Niagara matter. In short, this appears to be the most solid evidence so far presented that the 1944 and 1948 nominee wants to do a William Jennings Bryan.

Washington puts no stock in the notion that President Eisenhower will quit at the end of his present term, and try to throw the nomination to his convention crony. What the politicians expect is that the ambitious Dewey, in order to remain in the voters' eyes, will run again for governor next year, or be summoned here as secretary of state or attorney general. The New Yorker can afford to stand and wait until 1960. He is only 51 now.

DEWEY IMPRESSES — The only other explanation for Dewey's mishandling of the Niagara question is that he is unbelievably stupid and inept, and nobody believes that. In appearing before the Senate Public Works Committee, he impressed his audience with his suaveness and ability.

Dewey pleaded for Senate rejection of the House-enacted Dondero Bill, which authorizes five private power companies to develop Niagara hydroelectricity. He sponsors a measure which would turn the job over to his New York State Power Authority. Together with the Roosevelt-Lehman scheme for federal operation and ownership, the Dewey scheme was rejected in the lower chamber. Plumping for private enterprise, the House adopted the Dondero proposal by a 262-120 vote.

DELAYED MOVE — Although the Niagara issue has been a controversial question on Capitol Hill for years, Dewey did not beat himself until mid-May. Then he persuaded Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge to ask Dondero's House Public Works Committee to defer any action and to turn the problem over to the Federal Power Commission for final disposition. Willard Gatchell, FPC counsel, is a Dewey man. Since the White House, through Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, had previously favored private development, House Republicans were puzzled and angry. With unexpected haste, the committee approved the Dondero measure by a 147 line-up, and the Martin L. Halleck leadership rushed it to the floor with emergency speed. They wanted to outmaneuver Dewey, also Eisenhower, if he intervened on behalf of the governor.

POSTPONEMENT — On discovering belatedly the existence of overwhelming House sentiment for private development, a White House aide offered to exert influence on behalf of the Dondero Bill, if it were needed. In the same conversation, however, the Eisenhower spokesman asked House leaders to postpone passage for a few days in order not to "hurt Dewey's feelings." Dewey had come to Washington on the day of scheduled passage, supposedly to advocate the New York delegation's support of a waterfront crime law. But he utilized this White House reprieve to beg New York Republicans to vote for development of Niagara by his own State Authority.

His last-minute plea failed. Only one Empire State Republican of the 27-man delegation supported him, and only eight of 14 Democrats. It was a severe rebuff. Despite this setback, Dewey now makes the unprecedented request that the Senate undo the House work.

Young Roosevelt's explanation of this last-minute frenzy is that Dewey is not really concerned with the basic problem, but wants to pose as a public power advocate for political purposes.

Should he run again for President, according to this theory, Dewey would expect to carry the conservative East and Midwest, but he would need the electoral ballots of western states which favor public power. He would, it seems, preserve an issue — for himself — rather than solve a problem.

Living Cost Expected To Go On Higher

Dollar Buying Power Slipping Again After Encouraging Rally

By SAM DAWSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of eating is up again. The cost of living is likely to push still higher this month and next. The purchasing power of the dollar—which rallied for a time—is slipping again.

The government's official measuring stick for all this—the Consumer Price Index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics—set a record high in mid-June, pushing through the previous record high set a year ago and touched again at election time.

The index measures what was happening to your pocketbook six weeks ago. Since then meat prices have gone up. The price of gasoline has been raised most places. Some basic industrial prices have gone up, too—steel and various chemicals.

True, the housewife doesn't run out to the store to buy a pound of steel. But she does buy things made of steel and processed by chemicals. And the cost of making these things will be rising.

Rents continue to rise here and there across the nation. Another jump may be in store for some folk living in areas still under federal rent controls, which are scheduled to be lifted shortly.

Getting to and from work is becoming more expensive for lots of folk. Transit fares have risen in a number of cities, and are due to rise in others.

Services of all kinds—hospital and doctor bills, fuel and power—continue under the pressure of rising costs. Mailing letters may become more expensive.

But there is a brighter side to all this if you look for it. This is the time of year that commodity prices tend to rise. Many things going up now are likely to slip back in a few months.

Weather plays a particularly big role right now. Drought, for example, has hurt the cotton crop in some important growing areas. This has boosted the price of cotton. The same drought has sent many cattle prematurely to market, lowering prices of beef for a time.

Now government loans to distressed ranchers have removed some of this pressure to sell cattle, and prices rebounded for a time at the stockyards. In other places good rains boosted the outlook for a bumper corn crop, weakening these prices.

The government's cost of living index, moreover, doesn't necessarily mirror your own case too accurately. The index reflects the list prices paid for items at the store and for rent and services. Smart shoppers can do a lot better than that.

Fatalities Limited

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Covington ended a full year without a fatal traffic accident yesterday. With a population of 65,000, it's Kentucky's second largest city.

Rope To Peace Theme Heard By Rotary

Speaking upon "The Rope to Peace," Jacques Schweiss, intern minister in Trinity Lutheran church, addressed Circleville Rotary Club Thursday noon to compare different rope knots to persons and their way of life and service to their community.

The many uses of a rope were told in a poem he related, uses which, he said, made the rope a servant to mankind.

Members of a Rotary Club are interested in service to a community and in the uplifting of mankind, Schweiss said. Many times the things that Rotary does are not recognized, but Rotarians can be proud of the service they render.

Some individuals have no desire to serve others, are interested in self only and shun acquaintances, Schweiss said. Others withdraw themselves from society while others pretend to live up to some ethical standard, but fail, for they are interested only in personal gain and not of service to the community. There are also those who lose personality and integrity as they think of himself alone, for a self seeker is a self loser, he said.

SCHWEISS MADE comparisons of the hangman's knot, the granny knot and the square knot to different kinds of people and said that the wrong application can be made of a knot just the same as a person can make the wrong application of service.

The square knot is the most reliable

Great Grandkids Born Same Day

TROY, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Anna G. Ryan became a great-grandmother twice in one day and the babies aren't twins.

liable knot, he concluded, for it is dependable and will hold. Persons who use the square knot are citizens who are dependable, do good for the community and believe in service.

Virginia Hoping Polio Checked Now

BRISTOL, Va.-Tenn. (AP)—Both the gamma globulin and the lollipops finally gave out last night, but health authorities hoped they'd struck a blow toward checking a polio epidemic in this Virginia-Tennessee border area with the inoculation of 18,223 children in two days.

As the shots were completed, two more polio cases and one more death were reported, running the total since July 1 to 62 cases and three deaths in this section of more than 150,000 inhabitants. The inoculations were held at four clinics, two each in Bristol and Washington County, Va. There have been 39 cases on the Virginia side of the area, 23 on the Tennessee side.

Great Britain has built about 6,000 new factories since World War II.

Columbus Plans Big Sewage Plant

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Columbus Regional Planning Commission has disclosed a plan for a $47 million metropolitan sewage disposal system.

Commission officials said they hoped to begin construction of the giant system, designed to handle the city through 1980, by 1954.

MORE CHEVROLET TRUCKS
IN USE THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

Big truck users, small truck users, all truck users buy more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. It stands to reason Chevrolet trucks must offer more of what you want.

When you stop to think about it, the best proof of outstanding value in any product is continued public preference. For when folks discover a "good thing," sales go up and stay up. That's the way it is with Chevrolet trucks. Year after year Chevrolet trucks outsell all other makes. And they're the top selling trucks in America today . . . for the twelfth straight production year.

This is a mighty important fact to consider before you buy your next truck. You'll also want to consider that, while Chevrolet trucks give you more features you want, it's the lowest-priced truck line of all!

Whatever your hauling or delivery need, think it over, when you're thinking of a new truck. Then come in and talk it over with us.

Ted Williams Returning To Sox

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams will be released by the Marine Corps about Aug. 1 and, conceivably, get back into the Boston Red Sox outfield before the end of the season.

"Whatever the Red Sox say, I'll do," Williams said. "I don't know if I'll be able to help anybody. I figure it will be a month before I'll really be ready."

Williams is undergoing treatment for an ear ailment which forced him to be grounded as a jet pilot in Korea.

Toledo Moving Close To Tribe

By The Associated Press

The Toledo Sox, clicking for five double plays, trimmed Kansas City 5-2 last night to move within six percentage points of the American Association leaders, Indianapolis.

Third-place Louisville, pulling up to three games off the pace, handed the skidding Indians their 10th loss in 14 starts, 6-3.

Don Bessent pitched St. Paul to a 3-0 shutout of Columbus. Gene Fowler hurled Charleston to a 4-1 decision over Minneapolis.

When the University of Florida and Rice meet in football in Houston on Sept. 19 it will be the first grid match between the two.

Braves Facing Do-Or-Die Test In Brooklyn

Bums Feel Milwaukee On Ropes As Season Nears Stretch Drive

By The Associated Press

It takes a Brave team to invade Ebbets Field these days so Milwaukee opens a 4-game series in the home of the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight.

This is another of those "do or die" clashes that keep popping up all season. The Dodgers feel they've got the Braves on the ropes by now with a 5½ game lead and the season moving rapidly toward the two-thirds mark.

A 4-game Brooklyn sweep would pretty well write an unhappy ending to the first edition of Charlie Grimm's Milwaukee Fairy Tale. Although even a first division club probably will be welcome in the strike-bound brewery center which has gone hog wild over major league ball, a first year winner would have been mighty nice.

The Braves aren't through yet and they may be just the team to cool off the Dodgers who have won 10 of their last 11. Milwaukee is the only club in the league with a season's edge over the Dodgers in Brooklyn, having won three of the five games played there so far.

Both Brooklyn and the Braves were rained out yesterday so they'll go into tonight's game with a welcome day of rest. The Dodgers were supposed to play Chicago and Milwaukee was scheduled at Philadelphia. The rain also cut short the St. Louis Cardinals' series with the New York Giants. Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 7-0 in the only National League game played.

The big noise in the American League was the collapse of the New York Yankees in Cleveland for the third straight game. This time the World Champions looked like real country bumpkins as they were swamped, 10-2.

The Chicago White Sox muffed their chance to close in on the Yanks when they bowed to Boston, 4-3. The White Sox trail by 4½ games.

Detroit's slumbering Tigers popped up with a 4-game winning streak, taking a pair from Washington 9-6 in 10 innings and 5-4. The victories moved the Tigers within half a game of the seventh place St. Louis Browns who lost to Philadelphia, 7-4, in 14 innings.

Yanks Playing Bad Now, Old Casey Admits

CLEVELAND (AP)—Wise old Casey Stengel admitted today his first place New York Yankees are "playing bad every place," but reassured his followers he's "not so mad I'm going to faint."

After losing three straight to the third-place Cleveland Indians, including a 10-2 slaughter yesterday, Stengel appeared to be taking things in a philosophical way.

"My team has been a good ball club before and it will be a good ball club again," he said calmly. "Right now," he pointed out, "we're playing bad every place. Not hitting, not pitching and not fielding too good. And maybe even I'm not managing too good. When you got all those things wrong, you are in trouble."

"We're disappointed in some of the players, but I believe they will come back. I think the whole club will come back and fool them."

The wrinkled veteran also made it clear he has a high regard for the Indians although they haven't lived up to advance predictions of being strong pennant contenders.

"I'm not going to blow up the Cleveland team, but they are a good ball club," he said. "Maybe they've lost some games recently, but they haven't died. They have the same players. Their pitchers are the same. Cleveland has done a very good job."

The series final yesterday saw the Indian bats pound out 14 hits while Early Wynn was holding the Yanks to six.

Bobby Jones Says Hogan 'Greatest'

NEW YORK (AP)—Atlanta's immortal Grand Slammer didn't flinch when he came face-to-face with golf's most discussed issue—who was better, Ben Hogan or Bob Jones?

"People are running faster, jumping higher and jumping farther than ever before," Jones told a dinner group honoring Hogan last night. "It is only natural they should play golf better, too."

"Ben has proved they can."

It was a modest statement by a man who recognizes changing times and improving techniques.

Pressed further on the subject privately, Jones, who retired at 28 with 13 U. S. and British national championships, said:

"When I was 28 (that was the year of his grand slam) I thought I could hold my own with anyone over 72 holes. But I'm sure glad I didn't have to play that fellow Hogan."

"But in 1975 there will come another 11-3 and New Carlisle set back Lockbourne Air Base 5-2 yesterday in the first day's play of the double elimination tourney."

Sokolosky's These Days

Stalin killed Trotsky and most of the old Bolsheviks, purging millions of persons, in order to leave no possibility of a challenge to his right to be an autocrat. Yet, it was not until World War II that Stalin, the hated, became Stalin the author of victory.

One phase of the present struggle in Russia is that there is no legitimate method for change of the top officials in Soviet Russia. Actually, in an autocracy, the only legitimate method of change can be by inheritance.

Stalin had re-established autocracy but failed to produce a method of inheritance. He could not pass the government to his son; he chose his closest associates, Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. But in an autocracy, as in a democracy, the head of state cannot be a committee.

Stalin must have known that because he was one of a committee of three, Kamenov, Zinoviev and Stalin, who succeeded to Lenin's power, Stalin restored the czarist autocracy.

Malenkov has now removed Beria, but that does not solve his problem, for whereas he can, by murder, establish legitimate succession to Stalin, he has not been able to become an autocrat. He still is controlled by a small Presidium and the army is asserting measures of independence — how much is not clear.

It took Stalin 12 years to become an autocrat. How long it will take Malenkov or someone else to become an autocrat and how much blood will be shed before the normal autocracy is established no one can guess.

But this seems clear from Russian history: autocracy is the normal political concept of the Russians and whoever can be the autocrat will take over.

Destroyer Sinking To Be Recalled

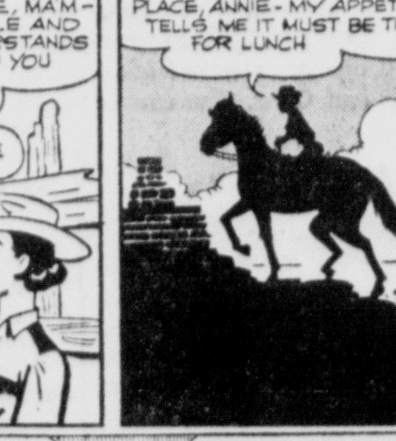

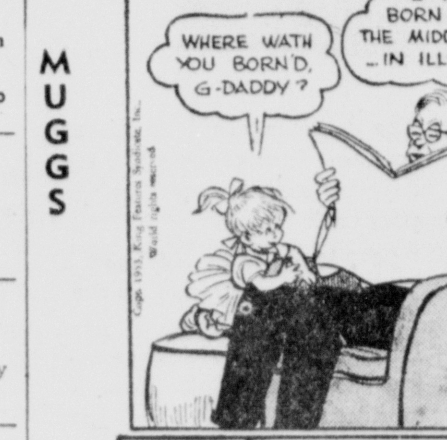

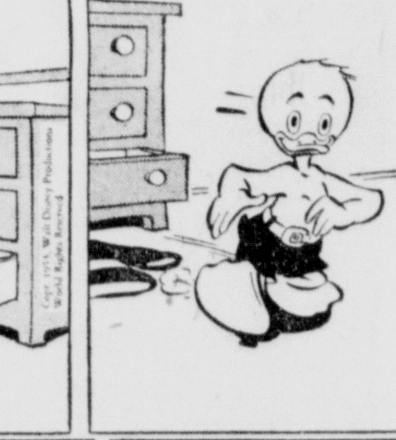

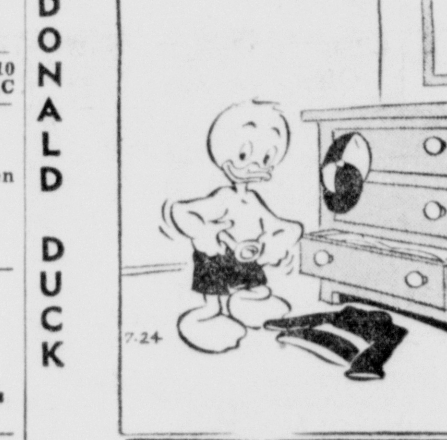

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The Navy destroyer escort Underhill was sunk by Japanese submarines at 3:15 p. m. on July 24, 1945, off the coast of Formosa.

At that hour today, services are being held in the Naval Academy chapel memorializing the 112 seamen who went down with the vessel.

Some of the 122 survivors will be among the 50 persons expected at the annual memorial.

Evening Is Most Dangerous

Tired Drivers Account For Many Crashes

Police Chiefs Give Suggestions For Safer Driving

Vacationing motorists ought to be most alert on the highway during the late afternoon and early evening hours.

A survey of several hundred police chiefs throughout the United States pointed to this period as the time when most collisions occur in the summer months.

Though excessive speed still holds the lead as the greatest single cause of accidents, the police chiefs said the over-tired driver, anxious to finish a long trip, accounts for many times more than his normal share of crashes during the summer months.

Following the car ahead too closely and unfamiliarity with local roads and traffic laws also cause more accidents than usual during the height of the vacation season.

EIGHTY-FIVE per cent of the police chiefs replying in the survey reported their communities are affected by the vacation travel caravan. Many police chiefs undertake special measures to meet the traffic problem created by the vacationing motorist.

Among the more usual of these measures are stricter law enforcement, the recruiting and use of additional help, special safety drives and temporary re-routing of traffic.

Urging frequent patrol of heavily used roads, Chief Robert V. Murray of the Washington, D. C., police department said: "The frequent appearance of police officers along the roadway is the best reminder to the motorist that he is not the sole user of the highway and that he should comply with traffic regulations."

Sgt. Edward H. McFadden of the accident prevention bureau of the Kansas City police department suggested that on long trips motorists "pass the steering wheel instead of the bottle."

Chief Hector J. Pelletier of the Cohasset, Mass., police department advised a vacationing motorist to "make a little more use of his head and a little less of his right foot."

Chief Harry W. Strock of Richland, Wash., urged the development of improved recreational facilities near major communities so that the public would be encouraged to take shorter trips; and Chief Neil F. Anderson of Arcadia, Calif., called upon the automobile industry to stop publicizing horsepower and speed and to build cars which might be slower but more capable of withstanding the impact of a collision.

CHIEF W. J. Wisnom of Hillsborough, Calif., suggested that head-on crashes might be greatly reduced by eliminating left turns off main highways; and Sergeant Max M. Snow of Provo, Utah, suggested the deputizing of citizens to work with state highway patrols by turning in the license numbers of offenders.

Driver training in high schools throughout the country was urged by Assistant Chief Charles E. Branch of Ardmore, Okla., who said these courses produced "the most accident-free group I have dealt with."

Many communities have launched psychological attacks on careless drivers. In Midland, Mich., signs posted at the city outskirts read "High Accident Area—3 1/2 miles" and "57 injuries in 1951." On the Wilbur Cross Parkway at Vernon, Conn., a thought-provoking sign says: "In Life, as in Baseball, it's the Number of Times you Reach Home Safely That Counts."

5 Million Gallons Of Water 'Lost'

MIDWEST CITY, Okla. (AP)—Puzzled city officials, admitting it would be tough to hide it in a bathtub, are trying to find out what happened to five million gallons of water last month.

Production from wells was nearly 55 million gallons but only 50 million went through the water meters.

Mayor Marion Reed said near-by Oklahoma City, plagued by a water shortage, was not suspected.

Willeford registered on Sept. 12, 1918.

There's little likelihood that he'll shoulder arms. He's 80 years old.

Ohio GI Listed AWOL 7 Times

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—William L. Shaffer of West Portsmouth doesn't like army life.

He has gone absent without leave seven times. On the fifth time he falsely confessed murdering a doctor to escape being returned. Yesterday, on his latest arrest, he asked Sheriff Burl Justice to charge him with carrying a concealed weapon.

But the sheriff found only a pocket knife on Shaffer, who reluctantly calls Camp Breckenridge, Ky., his base. He'll go back today.

Swimming Pool Is 'Blown Away'

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A lost and found ad in the Albuquerque Journal asks for the return of a swimming pool which, the owner said, blew away on one of New Mexico's light breezes.

Later the ad was cancelled. Seems the pool (made of plastic) was found three doors down in a neighbor's yard.

Buildings Burn

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—Fire yesterday destroyed three buildings, considerable equipment and a loading platform at the Wall Bros. quarry, 12 miles north of Portsmouth, causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

Cures sticky valves in 50 miles!
Ends sticking hydraulic valve lifters in a few miles! Sold on absolute money-back guarantee!

Here's an amazing new product that will give your car the same sweet performance at 80,000 miles as at 20,000! That will prolong your motor life two to three times! Will keep your motor clean of carbon deposits, clean of all deposits that cause sticky valves and rings, sticking hydraulic valve lifters, loss of power and final breakdown.

Here's all you have to do. Just add CD-2 to your present oil—or drain and add fresh oil and CD-2. The cost is trivial.

The benefits are immediate, sure and lasting. Get CD-2 today—for longer motor life for your car!

CD-2 is not to be confused with any product now on the market!

Don't accept substitutes as being "just like" CD-2. There is nothing like it. CD-2 will not dilute your motor oil—will not disappear or fade in a few miles. With good oil—it gives a heavier, longer lasting film for longer protection of vital parts.
